Curtis is Jailed For Year, Fined $1,000 for Hoax

Defense Attorneys Make Futile Effort to Halt Action
"CONTACT" DENIED
Curtis Described by Lawyer as "Man With Wild Dreams"

Flemington, N. J. — (P) — John Hughes Curtis, convicted of hindering capture of the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, was sentenced today to one year in jail and a fine of $1,000.

The maximum possible sentence which could have been imposed under the indictment on which Curtis was found guilty was three years imprisonment and $1,000 fine.

The sentence followed a fervent attempt on the part of the defense to halt action against Curtis before sentence was imposed.

Defense counsel moved for arrest of judgment on the same grounds that three separate attempts were made during the trial to halt the action before it reached the jury.

After a heated argument, during which counsel shouted back and forth, Judge Adam O. Robbins ruled that these points already had been passed on and denied the motion.

Lloyd C. Fisher, chief counsel for Curtis, shouted that Curtis had never had any contact with the kidnapers.

"He was just a man with wild dreams about boats and things," he said.

Changes Earlier Stand
This statement came as a complete surprise because the defense stand during the trial seemed to be that Curtis had been in touch with the real kidnapers and had done everything possible to help obtain return of the baby and capture of the kidnapers.

Curtis was arrested after he signed a confession that all his negotiations were a hoax, but later he repudiated this confession and accepted the trial opened the state against the repudiation and based its charges on the allegation that Curtis had been in touch with the kidnapers and then had prevented their capture by the hoax confession.

In arguing for arrest of judgment, Fisher said Curtis had been made the "goat" because he was "honest enough to come within the state's jurisdiction."

"Prejudice is the only reason John Hughes Curtis sits there convicted," he said. "We plead for mercy. The jury urged mercy. Only John Hughes Curtis, the goat, is tried. Thousands of clues and letters were received, but none were charged with obstructing justice. He is charged because he was honest enough to come within the state's jurisdiction."

Fisher moved for arrest of judgment was denied Prosecutor Anthony Hanck recommended, in view of the jury's plea for mercy, that Curtis be sentenced to two years in state prison and a fine of $1,000.

In an impassioned plea to the court before sentence was imposed, Fisher dwelt at length upon his assertion that prejudice had caused Curtis' conviction.

He said that Curtis was tried "in a court room streeped with prejudice in which the most famous man in the country, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, sat throughout the trial."

"It all worked out beautifully," he shouted. They brought in the verdict wanted."

One Juror Disagrees
Fisher also said that one of the jurors, after the verdict was handed down, said he did not believe Curtis guilty but that a new trial would have cost the state $10,000.

It was the juror who through several petitions held out for acquittal, but who finally agreed to join the other members of the jury in a verdict of conviction on the stipulation that a recommendation for clemency be included.

As soon as arguments were concluded today Curtis was called to the bar where he faced Judge

Exhume Body at Green Bay to End Slaying Rumors

Grave of F. W. Dunne to Be Opened at Donnelly Family's Request

Green Bay — (P) — In an effort to determine whether the death of F. Willard Dunne, Green Bay, seven years ago, was due to natural causes, the body was exhumed today under the direction of Coroner Grundman, Milwaukee, and Dr. Edward L. Tharinger, Milwaukee pathologist, was to perform an autopsy.

Milwaukee — (P) — The body of F. Willard Dunne, former business associate of Emmett A. Donnelly, who is held in Florida on a warrant charging complicity in murder will be exhumed today at Green Bay with permission of the Dunne family and at the request of Donnelly's relatives, District Attorney George A. Bowman announced.

Coroner Henry Grundman and Dr. Edward L. Tharinger, Milwaukee pathologist, were asked to cooperate with Brown-co authorities in making the examination in an attempt to set at rest rumors that Dunne died of other than natural causes. Dunne died here Jan. 23, 1925, and the body was taken to his former home in Green Bay.

Donnelly is now at liberty in Florida under $20,000 bond, charged with complicity in the slaying of Joseph H. Beal, another of his business partners. The state contends a $40,000 insurance policy carried on Beal's life, with Donnelly as the beneficiary, may have prompted the slaying.

Florida authorities requested an investigation of Dunne's death when they learned that he had carried a $50,000 insurance policy payable to Donnelly. The face value of the policy was paid on assignment to Donnelly's former wife, now Mrs. Stanley Stone, Milwaukee.

In view of the police investigation here, Miss Elizabeth Donnelly, a Milwaukee court reporter and sister of the accused, asked the exhumation of Dunne's body to clear her brother's name. The death certificate stated Dunne died of brain tumor.

"Because of the general situation and the request of Miss Donnelly herself I decided to order the exhumation and instructed Coroner Grundman to notify the authorities at Green Bay to prepare the grave for disinterment," the prosecutor said.

Dr. W. T. Nichols and Dr. Norbert Erzer, both of Milwaukee, will assist in the examination. John Dunne said he and his parents have no doubt his brother died of a brain tumor but that they would not oppose an autopsy.

300 Driven from Homes in Little Texas Village

San Antonio, Texas — (P) — Of the towns flooded in the area south and west of here following torrential rains of 10 days ago, the little village of Tilden appears to have suffered most.

Lewis Harrison, from the ranch country near the town, has asked immediate aid for the 300 persons who were sheltered for several days in a church when waters from the Rio river swept into their homes. The water has receded.

Harrison said the food supply was nearing exhaustion and sanitary conditions were deplorable. There was great need for tents to shelter the people, many Mexican families having been deprived of all their possessions except the clothes they were wearing.

Flood crests of three south Texas rivers which caused damage aggregating $1,000,000 in 20 counties were nearly spent and were expected to flow into the Gulf of Mexico early this week.

Nations Urged To Return to Gold Standard

World Bank Directors Unanimously Adopt Resolution at Basel

EARLY ACTION SEEN
England, Sweden and Japan Give Support to Stand by Bankers

Basel, Switzerland — (P) — Directors of the Bank for International Settlements today adopted unanimously a resolution calling for a return to the gold standard as the "best available monetary mechanism and best suited to make possible a free flow of the world's trade."

The action was regarded as highly important particularly as it followed so closely upon adoption of the treaty of Lausanne.

Also it was the first public intimation of the stand of the Bank of England since Great Britain abandoned the gold standard. Sir Montagu Norman, chairman of the board of the Bank of England, was absent, but he approved of the resolution and his alternate voted for it.

Sweden and Japan, both of which are off the gold standard, also endorsed the resolution. These votes were regarded in informed quarters as indication that those countries will return to the gold standard in the very near future.

The resolution asserted that it is desirable to prepare measures necessary to reestablishment of the gold standard and that the world bank will act as a common agency in the task of monetary reconstruction which will begin at the projected world economic conference to be held either at London or Geneva.

Up to Governments
"Realization of these measures," said the resolution, "depends first on action by the governments. Without that it is beyond the power of the bank."

To enable the mechanism of the international balance of payments to work again satisfactorily, the resolution said, "it will be necessary to restore to a reasonable degree the freedom of movement of goods, services and capital; to complete the solution of reparations reached at Lausanne by a satisfactory solution of the war debts, and to take the necessary steps in each country to restore and maintain the equilibrium of international economy, not only as regards the public debt, but also as regards production and the organization of the internal money and capital market."

It was pointed out that the war debt reference was not directed against the United States.

The world bank board renewed the Austrian credit of 90,000,000 shillings (currently $12,600,000) due July 16, the Jugoslavian credit of $10,000,000 due July 28, and the Hungarian credit of $20,000,000 due July 18. Each extension was for three months.

Gates W. McGarrath, the American head of the bank, was authorized to follow up the gold standard resolution.

Chile Trying to Suppress Revolt

Army and Navy Start Operations Against Two Regiments in South

Rio de Janeiro — (P) — The general staff of the army and navy took command of operations today against two rebellious army regiments at Sao Paulo, the southern capital.

From that city word came that the rebels had asserted that all the garrisons in the state of Sao Paulo were supporting the rebellion.

A government statement said the rebellion, which began Saturday, was not yet quelled, but that the northern states were loyal and in the south the movement was confined to the two regiments.

These units are part of the Fuerza Publica, an extraordinary government state militia which numbers 25,000 men and has 50 or more airplanes, a fleet of tanks and several artillery units.

Several times in the past federal governments have questioned the right of a single state to maintain such a powerful military establishment.

In 1924 the city of Sao Paulo, law object of a sea and air search for several days when it failed to arrive at Bermuda on a race from Montauk Point, N. Y., arrived today with a report that the boat had experienced both rough ground and easy cruising, but that it was in no danger at any time.

Garner Sees Session End By Close of This Week
Washington — (P) — Speaker Garner told newspapermen today he believed congress would adjourn by the end of the week.

"Things are beginning to point to adjournment," Garner said.

The Democratic vice-presidential nominee plans to leave for his Uvalde, Texas, home for a fortnight of recreation, before taking active part in the coming presidential campaign.

Slaying Suspect Shot as He Attempts to Escape

James Storey Critically Wounded During Fight In South Bend, Ind.

South Bend, Ind. — (P) — James Storey, sought for the slaying of Marshal J. N. Davis at North Baltimore, Ohio, last Friday, was seriously wounded when he attempted to escape from police here today.

Storey was arrested in a telephone office here this morning. When police arrested him he drew a gun but he was disarmed.

Storey was taken to police headquarters for questioning. While being taken to the detective department he broke loose and ran from the building.

With officers in pursuit firing at him, Storey dashed through the main streets of the city. He reached the Polaris bridge over the St. Joseph river and dived into the river. He was dragged from the river by detective Lewis Kish.

Storey was taken to a hospital for examination.

Police had been watching for Storey since last Saturday when he kidnaped John Hova of Toledo and Hova's nephew, William, and forced them to drive him to this city.

Prior to kidnaping Hova and his nephew, Storey had shot and critically wounded Dr. Martin Larkin, 34, a prominent Toledo physician.

Storey, who was 22 years old and formerly lived in St. Paul, was married three weeks ago to a Mishawaka, Ind., girl. Officers were informed by the information came from the father of the young woman. He told police he had seen descriptions of the slayer of Marshal Davis and suspected Storey was wanted in connection with that crime.

Arrest of Storey here was given upon information supplied by the father and sister of a Mishawaka, Ind., girl to whom he was married three weeks ago. The girl is Margaret, daughter of Delbert Hard.

Storey was still in this vicinity police kept a watch for him. He was found this morning in a telephone office. He drew a gun but was disarmed before he could fire a shot.

Bank Creditors in Demand for Action

Ask Immediate Steps for Disposition of Capital City's Affairs

Madison — (P) — Creditors of the closed Capital City bank of Madison today awaited a reply from Frank W. Kuehl, secretary of the state banking board of review to a letter in which they demanded immediate action toward disposition of the bank's affairs.

The creditors had presented several proposals for disposing of the assets and their letter, signed by Darrell D. McIntyre, chairman of the executive committee, and others charged that the state banking department was not cooperating with them.

Kuehl was out of the city today. The various proposals have been submitted to Deputy Attorney General Fred M. Wylie for a legal opinion. The creditors' letter said that unless the opinion is forthcoming in five days the committee will take further action to compel acceptance of the proposition which it believes to be in their best interest.

Wylie said today that the opinion will be rendered just as soon as it is ready to be rendered.

"Although the bank is but a stone's throw from the capitol, we have had absolutely no cooperation or assistance from the banking department in attempting to dispose of the assets of the bank," the letter said.

"We are at a loss to understand why the banking department, whose duty it is to assist defunct banks and creditors, should not come to our assistance in the Capital City matter."

The letter also said: "We trust that your motives are not political and that you have no other reasons than the welfare of the creditors in requesting a legal opinion."

Friend of Fred Burke Held in Kansas City

Kansas City — (P) — Identified as Harvey Bailey, the man who furnished a rural refuge for Fred Burke, notorious killer, John J. Brennan still was held here today, undecided whether to accept extradition to Fort Scott, Kas., on a bank robbery charge.

Brennan arrested on a local golf course Thursday as he finished a round of play with two escaped from Leavenworth federal penitentiary, admitted he was Harvey Bailey.

Bailey, police said, took Burke, wanted for murder, mail robbery and a dozen other charges, to his mother's farm home in Sullivan-co, Mo. Burke lived there about 10 years before he was captured and taken to Michigan to serve a life prison sentence.

Brennan, or Bailey, was said by police to have explained to Burke through a mutual friend who was working for a Chicago "gangster."

Duke of Ietuan Dies

Madrid — (P) — The Duke of Ietuan, whose father was minister of war in the cabinet of Primo de Rivera, died today of appendicitis.

Skipper of Ketch Tells Of Voyage Through Gale

New York — (P) — The Ketch Ketch, skipper of a sea and air search for several days when it failed to arrive at Bermuda on a race from Montauk Point, N. Y., arrived today with a report that the boat had experienced both rough ground and easy cruising, but that it was in no danger at any time.

Nat. Blum, skipper, said that in the first three days after the start of the race June 28, the boat made 541 miles, but was 100 to 150 miles east of its course. On the fourth day heavy southwest winds prevented the ketch from making much headway.

About the seventh or eighth day, he said, there were more favorable winds and the boat was headed for Bermuda again. However, the winds were light and when the ketch failed to make very good headway it was decided, when about 100 miles off Bermuda, to re-

Five in Home As Reynolds Met His Death

Newspaper Says Fifth Person Apparently Slept Through Shooting

ACTRESS TESTIFIES
Blanche Yurka Backs Statement Made by Friend Of Shooting Victim

Winston, Salem — (P) — Libby Holman Reynolds today testified at a coroner's inquest into the death of her youthful husband that he had threatened to shoot himself on several occasions. She said it had happened seven or eight times. On such occasions, she declared, he had a "wild look in his eyes" and she said she had believed him seriously.

Each time, she said, it happened after he "imagined things, such as that I didn't love him."

Winston-Salem, N. C. — (P) — The Twin City Sentinel today says it learned on good authority that the number of persons in Smith Reynolds' home at the time the young heir to tobacco millions was fatally shot last Wednesday, was five instead of four.

Previously it was reported only four people were under the roof of the mansion but the paper says Mrs. William Vaughn, whose husband was accidentally burned to death in Greensboro a few months ago, also spent the night there.

The Sentinel says, however, that Mrs. Vaughn apparently knew nothing of the tragedy until she awoke at 6 a. m. five hours after the shooting.

The paper says also that Blanche Yurka, New York actress and friend of Libby Holman Reynolds — Reynolds' bride of only a few months — gave testimony at a coroner's inquest Saturday to substantiate the claim of Albert Walker that he was on the first floor when the 20-year-old Reynolds heir fell with a pistol wound in his head.

Walker, a close friend of young Reynolds, is held in jail as a material witness while Mrs. Reynolds is under guard at Reynolds, the Reynolds estate, a few miles from here.

Walker was said by jail attendants to have shown a great deal of strain since his incarceration Friday night. He was described as "restless and nervous."

Mrs. Reynolds to Testify
Mrs. Reynolds, held as a material witness since Saturday, was expected to testify at today's session of the inquest.

Miss Yurka the Sentinel said, was understood to have told the coroner's jury that she saw Walker, downstairs in the reception room shortly before the shot was heard. She reported he told her he was waiting for Smith, who was found a short while later lying on the sleeping porch of the home.

Upon hearing the shot, she said, she ran out on the balcony, inside the house, and saw Walker run upstairs from the reception room.

Unofficial reports said Walker testified Mrs. Reynolds was at the head of the stairs near her bedroom.

Four Drownings Sunday in State

Galesville Man Loses Life When Boat is Swept Over Dam

(By the Associated Press)
Four persons drowned, one of them after a sensational plunge over a dam, as citizens turned to Wisconsin lakes and rivers for recreation Sunday.

Henry B. Olson, 42, of Galesville, lost his life when he was carried over the Beaver creek mill dam near his home, plunging over the dam with his brother, Pearl, who managed to swim from the wreckage.

The men were found from a wreckage Sunday by a boat and crew who were on duty and before they realized their boat was swept into the main channel. They decided to stand in the boat and wait for the moment to make over the dam. Pearl said that Olson, who was not a swimmer, was carried over the dam. Pearl managed to scramble out of the swirling water below the 15-foot dam. His brother, Pearl, said, may have been in the boat as it was washed about by the water.

Henry Olson is survived by his widow and six children.

Dominick Laskowski, 12, farm youth of the town of Beaver, drowned when he tried to swim across the Wisconsin river at Yellowbank near Stevens Point.

A young woman and a man drowned near the Wisconsin river at St. Croix river at St. Croix falls when a boat in which they were riding upset. The bodies were not found, but it was believed the victims were June Johnson and Richard Tait, both of St. Paul, Minn.

Two Men Killed When Plane Falls in Harbor

New Bedford, Mass. — (P) — Two men were killed and a third, Commander A. W. S. Agar of H. M. S. Scarborough, was seriously injured today when a biplane crashed into the harbor. Philip M. Mostrom, manager of the Sound airways and Philip S. Powell, local undertaker, were drowned.

Hoover Assails Loan Clauses in Relief Measure

Attacks Provisions Sponsored by Speaker Garner

URGES COMPROMISE
Asks Congress to Stay Until Agreement Is Reached

Washington — (P) — Carrying out his threat, President Hoover today vetoed the $2,000,000 Wagner-Garner relief measure.

The president's veto message running more than 2,000 words in length was placed in the hands of newspapermen at the white house within 15 minutes after the measure reached the chief executive.

In it, the president launched another bitter attack against the provisions insisted upon by Speaker Garner to make loans to individuals.

"This proposal," the president asserted, "violates every sound principle of public finance and of government. Never before has so dangerous a suggestion been seriously made to our country. Never before has so much power for evil been placed at the unlimited discretion of seven individuals."

Having in mind the wish for early adjournment, the president in his message recommended that a compromise should be reached upon terms suggested by members of both houses and both parties, and that congress should not adjourn until this is accomplished.

Work On Substitute
As the bill went forward with the signatures of Vice President Curtis and Speaker Garner, congressional leaders agreed upon the procedure for enacting a modified bill after the veto.

Following conferences with Garner, Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.), had prepared a substitute bill to be introduced as soon as the president's veto is received.

President Hoover's objection to the present measure is the provision providing for loans to individuals from funds given the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Little difficulty is expected with the new measure. Among others, Speaker Garner today predicted that congress would adjourn within a week. He is the sponsor of the loans to individuals clause and insisted upon it despite White House opposition.

The issue, however, is expected to figure in the campaign with some Democrats taking the attitude that the president prevented financial relief to individuals.

This modified bill will be offered by Wagner as an amendment to a house road bill now pending in the senate, in order to expedite procedure.

It carries the same provisions as the bill sent to the White House today except that the section for loans to individuals has been eliminated.

If the senate approves the bill as an amendment in the form of a substitute for the house road bill it will go to the house where leaders plan to move that the senate amendment be agreed to. This would complete congressional action and send the modified measure to the White House without the formality of a conference between the two houses, or further consideration by the senate.

Vote Special Group to Probe Campaign Costs

Washington — (P) — The senate today voted to set up a special committee to investigate 1932 campaign expenditures.

A resolution sponsored by Senator Dickinson (R., Iowa) to set up the special committee was also approved. Senator Howell (R., Neb.), also was agreed upon by party leaders as the probable chairman. Senators Brainerd of New Mexico and Connally of Texas are likely to be Democrats. Members Carey of Wyoming, and Harms of Delaware are expected to be Republicans.

The committee was authorized to investigate campaign expenditures for presidential and senatorial candidates.

"The speaker in his new role," said a source in the senate, "has been very active in the investigation of the campaign costs."

Balentine said, however, "no facts have been submitted suggesting any warrant for an investigation."

Of the speaker in his new role, Balentine said, "no facts have been submitted suggesting any warrant for an investigation."

Bank Cashier Shot Down in Richfield Holdup by Two Men

Richfield — (P) — Richard Hackbarth, cashier of the Richfield State bank, was shot and seriously wounded here today by two men who robbed the bank and escaped toward Milwaukee, with an undetermined amount of loot.

The alarm bell sounded continuously while the robbers worked in the bank. Cansons ran toward the back in time to see them speed southward on Highway 41. Pursuers were outdistanced but authorities of neighboring counties were notified to watch for a small blue sedan with red wheels.

Hackbarth was taken to a hospital at Hartford. The extent of his injuries was not immediately known. Although bank officials had made no check, the amount of the loot was believed to have been considerable since the bank had money on hand for cashing milk and cream checks.

Richfield is a village of 200 in Washington-co, north of Menominee Falls.

61 Women Dissent From Support for Roosevelt

New York — (P) — Mrs. Charles A. Sabin, national chairman of the women's organization for National Prohibition Reform, could find no comfort today in the petition of Mrs. August Belmont and 61 other members dissenting from the executive committee's resolution urging support of Franklin D. Roosevelt for president.

Mrs. Sabin added that comfort probably could be found in it by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the Anti-Saloon League, the Methodist Board of Prohibition, Temperance and Public Morals, and Bishop Cannon.

The 62 dissenting women issued a statement yesterday in which they said that "to make the attitude of the candidate toward control of the liquor traffic the sole test of his fitness for the presidency would be negation of our responsibilities as citizens."

Congress Busy Ending Work of Present Term

Trying to Complete Legislative Program in Order to Adjourn

Washington—(P)—Congress concentrated today on tag ends of its legislative program with every body confident that the $2,122,000,000 relief bill could not be passed over President Hoover's veto but that a substitute acceptable to the administration would be sent to the White House.

The Garner-Wagner bill, on which the senate Saturday completed congressional action, was ready for Speaker Garner's signature after the house convened at noon. Since the house was in recess Saturday, he could not sign it then.

The president's veto message, recommending elimination of the provision for loans to private individuals, had been completed and mimeographed for distribution. Arrival of the bill from Capitol Hill was the signal for Mr. Hoover's messenger to start out with the veto.

With Democratic leaders doubtful of the advisability of even trying to override this veto, both house and senate went to work on other things. The senate immediately after meeting began again to debate the Glass bill for currency expansion. Leaders there had conceded that it would pass as a rider on the pending measure for establishment of a Home Loan Banking system.

Beer Bill Proposed

Senator Bingham (R., Conn.) awaited disposition of the Glass amendment before bringing up again his proposal to legalize beer of 3.2 per cent alcohol. Many had predicted the votes for Bingham's bill would be more than a score while most held to the belief that the motion by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, to send it to the judiciary committee would prevail.

In the house, Secretary Mills and Eugene Meyer, chairman of the Federal Reserve board, were summoned to tell the rules committee what they thought about a proposed investigation—supported by Speaker Garner—of the treasury, reserve system and comptroller of the currency.

Leaders at both ends of the capitol expected to be able to work out soon a substitute for the relief bill. They thought it would drop the provision for loans to private individuals from the Reconstruction Finance corporation's proposed $1,500,000,000 new fund. There was some doubt as to whether the corporation's resources would be increased that much.

But most agreed the new measure would include two provisions to which the president had consented—an emergency relief fund of $300,000,000 and a public works program of $322,000,000. Part of the latter would be subject to approval by the treasury.

Laundry Mark is Clue in Arrest of Robbery Suspect

Wounded Oshkosh Man Confesses Identity in Hospital at Antigo

Merrill—(P)—A faded laundry mark and an unsatisfactory alibi were factors today which ended the manhunt by which Clarence W. Chelley, 21, of Oshkosh, Wis., has concealed his identity since he was found wounded in an Antigo hospital June 24.

Suspected of complicity in the larceny of a Merrill priest's automobile and a subsequent hold-up near Osseo, Chelley was turned over to Merrill authorities when he asked treatment at the Antigo City hospital for gunshot wounds in the hip. He gave his name as Jack La-sage of San Francisco, and said he was shot by tramps whom he disturbed in a box car at Green Bay.

Chief of Police Hugo E. Hanig, however, was not convinced by the explanation. He questioned the prisoner at length but failed to shake his alibi. While examining the man's clothing, Chief Hanig found the faint markings "E. E. F." on his underwear.

The initials corresponded with those of E. E. Fitch, Des Moines, Iowa, a cosmetics salesman employed by a Minneapolis firm, who was robbed near Osseo on June 23 by four men. In addition to $75 and Fitch's car, the quartet drove away with Fitch's luggage and also that of Mrs. Edward Fox who was riding with him. They abandoned an automobile stolen here from the Rev. Father Michael Prock.

With this clue connecting his prisoner with gangster activities, Chief Hanig communicated with authorities at Wausau where a confessed gang leader, identified as Paul Levans, recently was arrested and charged with looting the mails and a warehouse. Shown a picture of the man held here, Levans identified him as a former partner in depredations in this region.

When confronted with this information Chelley admitted he had assumed an alias, Chief Hanig said. He also confessed he implicated in a filling station hold-up at Freeport, Ill., in which a man was killed. He said he was accidentally wounded while riding in the automobile stolen from Father Prock. Chief Hanig said he originally connected Chelley with the larceny of the car because of gunshot markings in the machine.

In his confession, Chelley insisted the shooting was accidental, that there was no quarrel in the gang, and that he did not take part in stealing the car but was picked up by his three companions at Chetek, Wis. They decided on the Osseo holdup, he said, when the priest's car ran out of gasoline.

Walked to Hospital

After transferring a sub-machine gun, sawed off shotguns and ammunition into Fitch's car, the confession related, Chelley's companions promised to find a doctor immediately. Chelley, however, refused to let them to within two blocks of the Antigo hospital and left him to go in alone, promising to return for him in two days.

Although Chelley was nettled by the fact his companions had failed to "spring him" out of the hospital or the jail, he refused to give their names, declaring he would not be a "squealer," Chief Hanig said. He said some of his accomplices were now serving sentences.

The police chief said he would attempt to connect Chelley with other recent crimes in this region while awaiting further information regarding the Freeport holdup.

Chelley's confession related that he and a companion were the only members of a gang who escaped after the holdup and that one man was killed in the chase. Chief Hanig pointed Freepost authorities of the confession.

F. A. Burke, St. Paul, Railway Express company agent, also questioned Chelley regarding the theft of five mail sacks from the depot at Antigo. Chelley recently was charged with the theft but said he could not remember the incident. The mail was recovered last week through information given by Levans.

Gas Tank Resurrection

Bothers City Employees

The resurrection of the gas tank at the street department building is troubling city officials. Properly named "gas tank," the emergency tank Sunday decided to come up for air, and looks very much like it intended to stay up.

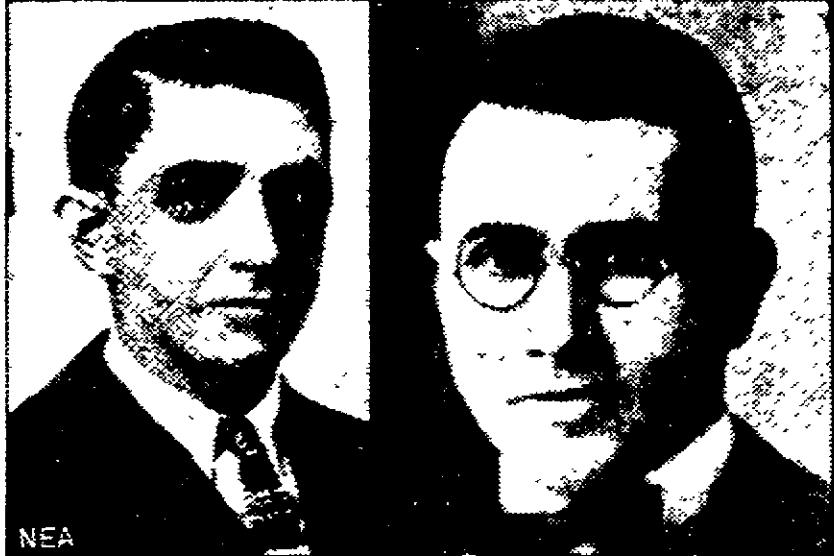

The tank, which has a capacity of 125 gallons, was sunk two feet under the surface, according to rules prescribed by the state building code. However, the influx of water underneath caused the empty tank to rise to the surface. Whether to remove the tank and pump out the water or just shovel dirt over the top has not been decided.

FLEEING KILLER KIDNAPS TWO

Kidnaped by a fleeing bandit who had just killed one man and wounded another, nine-year-old William Klesin and his uncle, John Hova, were forced to drive the fugitive from Toledo, Ohio, to South Bend, Ind., where he released them unharmed. The lad and his uncle are shown in the upper photos. Below are Dr. Martin J. Larkin (right), Toledo physician, who was shot by the bandits during the latter's escape after he had killed City Marshal Jay Davis in a gun battle at North Baltimore, Ohio, near Toledo, when the officer was trying to arrest the desperado for a robbery. Police identified the bandit as James Storey, 25, alias James Wilson, of St. Paul, Minn. Two of Storey's younger brothers were arrested, one being wounded in the gun battle with the marshal. James Storey was captured this morning at South Bend, Ind., after he was seriously wounded in a fight with police.

Governor Roosevelt and His Sons Off on Cruise

Port Jefferson, N. Y.—(P)—Governor Roosevelt became Skipper Roosevelt of the Myth II today, with a crew of Roosevelts to command.

On the eve of his departure on a small sail boat for a week's vacation with three of his sons, the presidential nominee learned the trip would be interrupted by an invitation from President Hoover to come to Washington.

The president in firm terms advised his political rival last night there was no need for a personal conference to speed up negotiations for a St. Lawrence waterway treaty with Canada. Mr. Roosevelt had suggested such a conference and informed Mr. Hoover he would abandon the excursion to the New England coast to talk over the waterway question. New York state is particularly interested in the St. Lawrence treaty because it intends building a hydro-electric plant on the river.

Mr. Roosevelt refrained from commenting upon the president's telegram. One of his advisers, however, made it plain he regarded it an evasion of the issue.

In laying aside his political responsibilities for the weekend, the governor also laid aside the garments of a landsman for canvas pants and flannel shirt. An anchorage off New Haven, Conn., is the goal of the first day.

The course will take him along the coast of Connecticut and Rhode Island to Buzzards bay, through the Cape Cod canal and along the coast of Massachusetts to Portsmouth, N. H.

Governor Roosevelt's crew is made up of his sons, James, Franklin and John. The fourth Roosevelt, boy, Elliott, was unable to make the trip.

The governor since childhood has navigated sailing craft. During his days as assistant secretary of the navy, he often cruised New England waters.

A boatload of news writers and camera men and another of Roosevelt political leaders followed the governor's boat. James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, was to be on one of two accompanying yachts.

Field Day, Picnic Planned at State Experiment Farm

Sell Urges Farmers to Attend Event Thursday at Hancock

The 1932 annual field day and farm folks picnic will be held at the state agricultural department experiment station one mile south of Hancock on Highway 81 on Thursday, according to word received by Gus Sell, county agent. This station is in the sandy soil district and farmers whose land abounds in sand will be interested in the experiments carried on there, according to Mr. Sell.

Farmers from all sections of the state are being invited to Hancock for the day to observe and study the crops under different management. A special program is arranged for the women. Many speakers will discuss various farm problems and the experiments being carried out at Hancock.

The responses of plants and animals to their foods and surroundings do not fluctuate as has the value of the farmer's dollar, and observations made now will be as valid in years to come as today, although the farmer's application thereof must accommodate itself to economic conditions. In due time farming will regain its position, and, for that reason, we particularly invite the younger farmers, who may inform themselves now, develop their plans and prepare their soils for the time when their dollar will again buy a hundred cents worth of needs and comforts, and thus cash in at middle age on the start made now. This is the keynote of this year's field day.

To that end special field preparation is being made for station day and for the earlier visit of midwestern agronomists. The field inspections will practically displace all other program material.

"First: the too prevalent American attitude that nothing can be done during the depression is a position of un-American cowardice. Second: conferences on international affairs too often concern themselves with loose discussion of yesterday's and impractical theories and professional talk. The world has seen a good deal of failure in the fields of political conferences and diplomatic negotiations to preserve the peace of the world."

Hoover Won't Hold Confab On Waterway

Wires Roosevelt Discussion Must Wait Upon Ratification of Treaty

Washington—(P)—President Hoover does not intend to discuss the St. Lawrence waterway with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt until the United States and Canada have agreed upon and ratified a treaty for the vast project.

In answer to a suggestion from the Democratic presidential nominee that they talk over the problem, Mr. Hoover telegraphed yesterday: "The treaty is consummated and ratified. I shall be glad to consult with you and other governors. I have no doubt that we can make such recommendations to the congress as will be helpful to them in problems relating to each state."

The president added that in preliminary negotiations, although "international treaties fall within the sole jurisdiction of the federal government, nevertheless the representatives appointed by you and leaders in other states primarily concerned have been consulted."

Mr. Hoover made no direct reference to Roosevelt's expressed understanding that a difference over New York state's share of the cost of the project had, up to now, prevented complete accord. He probably included that in the "all domestic questions" phrase in this portion of his answer:

"Domestic Questions"

"The question of the disposal of the by-product of power which will result from the works which border the state of New York, like all domestic questions of this character affecting the two counties, is reserved by the proposed treaty for purely domestic action by each country."

"This disposal is not the subject of international agreement," Mr. Hoover continued. "If a treaty is concluded and is ratified by the senate, then the domestic questions which may arise must be settled through the action of both the senate and house of representatives in accordance with federal and state law and in accord with the interest of all the states of the union."

"You will realize that neither you nor I have authority to enter upon agreements in respect to these domestic questions."

For these reasons, the president said, "It will not be necessary" for the New York governor to interrupt his forthcoming cruise by a visit to Washington. He assured Roosevelt that the negotiations "are making progress."

At Hyde Park, N. Y., Roosevelt made no immediate comment. That Mr. Hoover agreed the waterway had the makings of a political issue was attested by his consultation with Walter Newton, his former congressman-secretary, before the telegram was made public.

Inventor Dies

KING C. GILLETTE

Gillette, Razor Blade Inventor, Is Dead in West

Born at Fond du Lac 77 Years Ago—Mapped Out "World Corporation"

Los Angeles—(P)—King C. Gillette who amassed a fortune by inventing a razor blade cheap enough to allow it to be discarded once it became dull, died with his greatest ambition—a plan to incorporate the world as a business corporation as a cure for economic ills—unrealized.

The 77-year-old inventor, in failing health for the past two years, died last Saturday night at his Calabasas ranch home, but almost to the end of his life, he had maintained an active interest in social problems.

Mr. Gillette first outlined his "world corporation" in 1910, a plan to incorporate the world as a business concern with the late Theodore Roosevelt as president at a salary of $250,000 annually. The purpose of the corporation would be to do away with political government, war, poverty and waste resulting from individual competition.

Mr. Gillette, retired from active business for several years, had devoted himself to writing and travel. Funeral services have been tentatively set for Wednesday morning in Glendale.

The difficulty of trying to shave with a dull, straight-edged razor inspired King Gillette to do something to make that daily task easier and safer.

He studied the problem constantly and finally there came to him the idea of the thin, sharp, double-edged razor blade that could be manufactured so cheaply that it could be discarded when it became dull.

How to use the blade was another matter that occupied the attention of Mr. Gillette for five years, during which he worked out the plan and finally perfected the model for the Gillette safety razor. The device eventually made him a wealthy man and his face one of the best known in the world, for his likeness was printed on the wrapper of every Gillette blade, the sales of which mounted to more than 1,000,000 a year.

Living at Brookline, Mass., at the time, Mr. Gillette interested William E. Nickerson, an instructor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in his idea. The latter showed his faith in the new shaving device by accepting stock in the company which Gillette had formed in lieu of salary for his services.

Much of the later success of the razor was attributed by Mr. Gillette to the mechanical genius of Nickerson, who designed and made all the machines with one exception, now used in the Gillette plant at Boston.

Like many inventions, the safety razor was slow gaining popularity. It was first placed on sale in 1903 and during that year 51 razors and fourteen dozens of blades were disposed of. The next year these figures increased to 90,000 razors and 100,000 dozens of blades. In 1926 the company sold 15,000,000 razors and more than 50,000,000 packages of blades, in all parts of the world.

Mr. Gillette was born at Fond du Lac, Wis., Jan. 25, 1855. His father, George Wolcott Gillette, was a descendant of the first governor of Massachusetts and an inventor. His mother, Fanny Lamira Camp Gillette was the author of the "Where

Two courses for band directors are offered by Capt. Charles O'Neill, who conducts the twenty-second regimental band and is considered a national authority on band music. Remaining courses are in charge of the school music staff. A. R. McAllister, of Joliet, Ill. is conductor of the all state band.

The clinic is a Wisconsin innovation and its practical courses are pursued on a credit basis. The public will get a chance to look in on the accomplishments at two performances on the Memorial Union terrace.

The son was educated in Chicago, to which city his parents moved when he was five years old. After working for a hardware company in Chicago two years, Mr. Gillette became a traveling salesman. He was sent to England by one company to establish a branch of the business and upon returning to the United States joined the force of a bottle stopper company.

In 1901 he was placed in charge of the later company's London office but remained abroad only three years when he resigned. By that time he had perfected the idea of his safety razor and returned to America to devote all his time to it.

Continue Hunt For Clues in Mystery Death

Officials Delve Into History of Smith Reynolds and Libby Holman

Winston Salem, N. C. — Authorities delved today into Libby Holman's romance with Smith Reynolds and his history for the past several years searching some clue to the mystery surrounding his death.

One story was that Reynolds had a narrow escape from death by shooting on a Long Island outing almost a year to the day before the young heir to tobacco millions was found shot through the head at Reynolds' estate here, last Wednesday.

Sheriff Scott said he was informed a bullet pierced Reynolds' shirt on that occasion.

Out of the inquiry into the romance of the 20-year-old Reynolds and Miss Holman, a Broadway blues singer who was six years his senior, came for the first time the details of their marriage.

They were married at Monroe, Mich., Nov. 29, 1931, by a justice of the peace. They announced their marriage in New York last May and it was reported then they were married in Hawaii as Reynolds, an aviation enthusiast, was returning from a trip by plane and boat around the world.

The date of the marriage was just six days after Reynolds' first wife, Anne Cannon, secured a divorce in Reno.

Miss Holman revealed the date and place of the marriage at the first session of a secret inquest held by Coroner W. N. Dalton behind closed doors at Reynolds'.

While the check was being made upon other details of their romance and upon the story of Reynolds' narrow escape on the Long Island outing, the investigation was pressed here. The inquest was to be resumed at 1 p. m. today.

So far as has been made public, about all that has been disclosed by the investigation here has been these salient points:

1. Reynolds was shot about 1 a. m., Wednesday morning while on a sleeping porch adjoining his wife's bedroom. He was carried to a hospital unconscious and died there at dawn without making a statement.
2. In the house at the time besides the household servants were Mrs. Reynolds; Blanche Yurka, New York actress who was visiting Mrs. Reynolds and coaching her for a new play; Albert (Abi) Walker, of Winston-Salem, life-long friend of Reynolds and his secretary; and Raymond Kramer, of Flushing, L. I., who was Reynolds' tutor.
3. The night before Reynolds had given a party in celebration of the 21st birthday of C. G. Hill, a Winston-Salem friend, and his guest did not leave until midnight.
4. A towel, apparently stained with blood, was found in the bathroom adjoining Mrs. Reynolds' room. Bloody fingerprints were on the bathroom floor.
5. A pistol from which one shot had been fired was on the floor of the sleeping porch.

Describes Shooting

Mrs. Reynolds told the jury her mind was a blank in respect to the time from Monday about 11 p. m. until late Wednesday except for a "flash" in which she saw Reynolds with the pistol to his head, heard him call her name and saw him fall.

As a result of the evidence presented it, the coroner's jury ordered Walker and Mrs. Reynolds held as material witnesses. He was lodged in jail and she has been under guard in her apartment in Reynolds.

Miss Yurka was requested not to leave Winston-Salem.

The finger-prints found on the bathroom door have been turned over to an expert and if they are sufficiently clear will be compared with those of all persons who were in the house the night of the tragedy.

As it faced the case today, the coroner's jury, as well as could be gathered from officials, was without any particular reason to believe Reynolds' death was other than suicide, but has been unable to learn any reason why Reynolds, young and apparently without cares, should have taken his life.

After the death of her husband, Mrs. Reynolds was reported to have collapsed, but was said to be considerably improved today. Her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Holman of Cincinnati, Ohio, are at Reynolds, but since the coroner's jury ordered her held as a witness have not been able to talk to her, officials said, except in the presence of a deputy sheriff.

Others now at the Reynolds home are Smith Reynolds, two sisters, Mrs. Charles Babcock, and Mrs. Henry Walker Bagley, both of New York.

Richard J. (Dick) Reynolds, Jr., eldest son of the late R. J. Reynolds, who built from tobacco the fortune of $100,000,000 to which his four children are heirs, is expected to arrive in New York Friday. He was cruising in his yacht off the coast of East Africa when notified of his brother's death.

Mr. Meating pointed out that an efficient program of supervisory help needs a uniform calendar for the county and for this reason this program was formulated.

$7,500 Damage As Fire Razes Barn, 2 Silos

45 Tons of Hay, Considerable Farm Machinery Burned—20 Chickens Die

Damage estimated at $7,500 resulted from a fire on the farm of Frank Schimmers, 1401 E. Calumet-st., early this morning when two large barns and two silos were destroyed in a blaze of unknown origin. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

One of the barns was 36 feet wide and 90 feet long, with a hip roof. It housed about 45 tons of new hay, cut this year. The other barn was 20 feet wide and 60 feet long and housed all the farm machinery, which was stored there. The two barns were connected. The two silos, 12 feet in diameter by 30 feet high, were connected with the larger section of the barn. These also were totally destroyed.

About 20 game chickens died in the flames, Mr. Schimmers said. Livestock on the farm was not in the barn last night.

The flames were first discovered by Mr. Schimmers' nephew, Alfred, who was awakened about 1:30. By 2:30, Mr. Schimmers said, both the barns and silos had burned to the ground. A large crowd of neighbors and spectators gathered as the flames lighted the skies. The wind, however, blew the flames away from the residence and it was not threatened. Mr. Schimmers said he is making plans to rebuild as soon as possible.

Curtis is Given Year Jail Term

Lindbergh Hoaxer Also is Ordered to Pay $1,000 Fine—Appeal Planned

Adam O. Robbins without apparent remorse.

"You have been convicted by a jury of committing a misdemeanor," said Judge Robbins. "It now becomes my unpleasant duty to impose sentence. In my ten years of experience I have never given a sentence so much consideration and thought."

"The jury recommended mercy. This is evidence that you are a respectable citizen, but these matters cannot sway the court. I sentence you to serve one year and pay a fine of $1,000."

Curtis then returned to the defense counsel table where he sat with folded arms while defense and prosecution attorneys moved up to the bench to discuss details of appeal.

Fisher immediately launched into an argument in favor of a new trial for Curtis, but Prosecutor Hauck protested that such an argument could not be given in the county court, but in the appellate court. Judge Robbins denied the motion.

Prepares to Appeal

Fisher then announced that he would seek appeal in the regular manner by going to a higher court. He had earlier announced that he would not seek appeal at all if the sentence consisted of nothing but a fine.

After sentence was imposed the question was raised of issuance of a certificate of reasonable doubt permitting Curtis to be released on bail pending appeal. Procedure in such a matter has been changed during the past year and a recent case was taken for discussion of the proper course to be followed. Counsel went into the judge's chambers and Curtis remained at the defense table.

In arguing for a new trial, Fisher said, "the best lead in the Lindbergh kidnapping case is in an army cantonment," but he did not elaborate on the statement.

Returning from the conference Fisher said Paul had been fixed at $10,000 and Judge Robbins would issue the certificate of reasonable doubt to permit Curtis' release under bond.

Curtis went back to his cell and Fisher said he did not know yet whether bail would be provided.

Judge Robbins issued the certificate of reasonable doubt and signed the writ of error which sends the case to the supreme court.

Fisher said he would get in touch with Curtis' friends in Norfolk, Va., and try to arrange to have bail supplied in a day or two.

Records of the trial and the defense reasons for asking a new trial must be filed with the supreme court by July 30. Unless bail is furnished Curtis will be taken from the county jail to the state prison at that time.

Miss Yurka was one of Mrs. Reynolds' guests at the house party at the Reynolds' palatial home near Winston-Salem, N. C., when the shooting occurred. Chicago Cruisers Start Return Trip

Yacht Club Members Entertained at Fond du Lac Over Weekend

Boats on the annual cruise of the Chicago Yacht club were expected to arrive here late this afternoon from Fond du Lac where club members were entertained over the weekend by the Fond du Lac Yacht club. Twenty-five Chicago boats started on the cruise over Lake Michigan last week, but only five completed the trip, which included a trip over Green Bay and up the Fox river and across Lake Winnebago to Fond du Lac.

Several boats were forced to turn back in a storm on Lake Michigan, and others, which anchored at Washington Island, were unable to continue on schedule because of a gale on Green Bay.

A golf tournament, dinner dance, automobile tour, and cruise up the Wolf river to Lake Poygan furnished entertainment for the visitors. They were guests of the Fond du Lac club during the stay in this part of the valley.

adjoining the sleeping porch when he ran up the steps. He said she was "hollering."

Walker is reported to have said Miss Yurka helped him carry Reynolds from the sleeping porch but her testimony was quoted as being that Walker brought the body from the porch to the interior balcony and that she helped him at that point.

Meanwhile all occupants of the house were fingerprinted for comparison with marks found on a bathroom door of the house.

MARRIED IN MICHIGAN

Monroe, Mich. — P — Coincident with the disclosure that this city was the scene of the marriage of young Smith Reynolds and Libby Holman, it was recalled today that long before Justice Fred M. Schoepfer performed the ceremony last Nov. 29, the city commission had questioned his right to hold office.

The state legislature in 1928 adopted what was known as the municipal courts act, providing for the establishment of courts of high rank in certain cities. Schoepfer refused to surrender his office and went on performing its functions.

The city commission ordered quo warranto proceedings instituted to oust Schoepfer, but his death Dec. 26, last, intervened before definite action was taken.

There was nothing about the ceremony to distinguish it from the many others performed in the parlor of the Schoepfer home here and the two witnesses remember the principals only as a "nice young couple."

TELLS OF BULLET HOLE

Port Washington, N. Y. — P — Mrs. Daniel A. Murdock said today she found a bullet hole in a dining room table in the Long Island house which she rented to Libby Holman, widow of Smith Reynolds, last summer.

The course of the bullet was definitely shown across the table top," she said. I asked my agent to suggest to Miss Holman that she pay for repairs. She readily agreed."

Miss Holman did not explain to the agent how the table came to be damaged, she said.

Miss Holman rented the house, in the Spanish bungalow colony near here, for the summer. Smith Reynolds occupied a cottage near the actress and near an airport where he kept his plane.

Hitler Declares Reparations Pact Due for Discard

Nazi Leader States Agreement Won't "be Worth 3 Marks in 6 Months"

Berlin — P — The new reparations agreement formulated at Lausanne last week, under which Germany agreed to pay 3,000,000,000 marks to settle reparations claims against her "will not be worth three marks within 6 months," according to Adolf Hitler, Germany's National Socialist chieftain.

Hitler made the prediction last night in an address to a monster meeting of uniformed Nazis from Bavaria and Austria at Berchtesgaden. A sharp line had been drawn, he said, between the government of Chancellor Franz von Papen and the Nazis.

A large crowd greeted the chancellor and his aides when they returned from Lausanne yesterday, however.

In the meantime political rioting continued. Three were killed and many wounded in yesterday's clashes. A policeman was killed at Bremen, a Nazi was shot dead at Duisburg in a Nazi-Communist fight and a Reichsbannerman was killed at Eckernforde in a clash with Nazis.

Five Paraders Shot

Five were seriously wounded when unidentified persons fired upon a Nazis procession at Darmstadt.

The cabinet approved unanimously today the work of the German delegation at the Lausanne conference.

"The next task," Chancellor von Papen told newspapermen, "is measures at home which the government will undertake immediately to transmit the moral result of the Lausanne conference to the elements of Germany's economy."

The chancellor said he doubted whether a three billion marks bond issue could be floated in 12 years, but if it is it will mean that Germany has recovered financial and economic equilibrium.

He said he thought it was a great gain that Great Britain had accepted the German standpoint regarding the "war guilt" issue. The fact that Germany must still pay three billion marks he blamed on the policies of preceding cabinets.

CONGRESS NOT ENTHUSIASTIC

Washington — P — Members of congress are sure they do not want to listen just now to talk from abroad about revision or cancellation of war debts.

Pending before the senate today was a resolution by Senator McKellar (D. Tenn.) reflecting the attitude of many members of that legislative branch as well as the house. It would seek from the state department something as to the truth of published reports that the government had expressed a willingness to consider a further reduction.

McKellar knew, when he presented this resolution, that the state department insisted there had been no change in the administration's position since June a year ago. But, like many other members of both houses, he was not so enthusiastic since the Lausanne agreement about President Hoover's statement a year ago.

The president said then that while he opposed cancellation of war debts he was "sure the American people have no desire to attempt to extract any sum beyond the capacity of any debtor to pay."

To some senators this phrase was more meaningful in view of the Lausanne conference. Like McKellar, they recalled that in raising the moratorium last December, the congress declared unequivocally against further reduction. For that reason, they again like the Tennesseean, wanted to know whether the government had indicated it would accept a reduction and "if so by what authority any representative of the United States has taken such action."

New London Man Borrows Shotgun To Take Own Life

Fred Zaug, 58, Shoots Self In Head — Wife Finds Body

Believed despondent because of financial reverses, Fred Zaug, 58, a resident of New London for the past 19 years, shot himself in the bathroom of his home at 635 Beacon-ave, New London, at 4:15 Saturday afternoon. He discharged the gun by pushing his foot against a wire connected with the trigger of the single barreled shotgun.

Mrs. Zaug heard the shot and the breaking of a window. Hurrying upstairs she saw the muzzle of the gun protruding from the bathroom door. She called for help, and men working on the construction of a house next door found the body of Mr. Zaug lying on the bathroom floor.

Investigation revealed that the victim had borrowed the gun from Clarence Kroll, 810 Smith-st., early Saturday, stating that he wanted to shoot a yellow dog, presumably his own. Members of his family, he stated, were to be away for the day and he wanted to take advantage of their absence to kill the dog. To another acquaintance he had said that he knew a place where the fish were so thick one might shoot them.

He concealed the gun until the afternoon, when he expressed an intention of taking a bath. While his wife slept he wrote a note to his son, Gordon, which read simply, "Gordon, you will find my papers and policies in the bureau drawer."

Fred Charles Zaug was born in the town of Dupont, Waupaca-co., Dec. 16, 1873, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Zaug. He was married to Miss Mary Meyers of Clintonville. The family lived at Marion and Gresham, where Mr. Zaug operated cheese factories, until 1913, when they moved to the city. Mr. Zaug worked as department forman for the Wisconsin Seating company, which later became the Edison Wood Products company. Upon the organization of the American Plywood corporation plant in this city he transferred to that factory, where until January he was employed as foreman of the veneer department. He had been unemployed since January.

The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at the Cline-Learman funeral home, New London. Burial will be at Marion.

Survivors are the widow; one daughter, Mrs. Margaret Seims, Appleton; two sons, Gordon and Jerome of New London; four sisters, Mrs. Harvey Meyers, Mrs. P. C. Rogers, Marion, Mrs. Stephen Bell, Rhinelander, Mrs. Joseph Benz, New London; two brothers, Wilbert, Marion, and Frank L. Zaug of this city, and two grandchildren.

BY BRUCE CATTON
On Jan. 15, 1920, the well-known evangelist, Billy Sunday, presided at funeral services which were being held in Norfolk, Va., for John Barleycorn.

As the casket containing the remains of the ancient toper moved out to what was expected to be its last resting place, Mr. Sunday cried: "Goodbye, John. You were God's worst enemy. You were hell's best friend. I hate you with a perfect hatred."

And so John Barleycorn was buried, and on the following day the 18th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, outlawing the liquor traffic, went into effect.

Today there are signs that the deceased has been stirring restlessly in his coffin—turning over once or twice, at least, if not preparing to sit bolt upright. And as the two great political parties, perspiring freely, set about putting a pulmotor into operation, it is worth while to look back to the beginning and see how prohibition began, what it meant to the land that adopted it and how the political parties have handled themselves in regard to the matter.

How Prohibition Rose
The temperance movement itself is as old as America itself, destined the fact that the early inhabitants were largely men who liked their liquor strong and knew how to hold it.

By the middle of the 19th century this movement had given birth to a definite movement for the enactment of prohibitory laws. Maine went dry first of all, and by 1835 no fewer than 12 additional states had done likewise. All of these backslid, however, and shortly after the Civil war, Maine was left alone as the nation's solitary dry state.

There was another rise of prohibition spirit in 1880, however, when Kansas wrote a prohibition law into its constitution, and several more states went dry in the decade following. Again, though, there was backsliding, and by 1905 America contained just three dry states—Maine, Kansas and North Dakota.

The cause of prohibition had been making progress, nevertheless. In 1889 the Prohibition party, never really influential but significant, just the same, of a slowly rising prohibition sentiment, was organized. In 1874 the much more important Woman's Christian Temperance Union came into being; and in 1893, in the First Congregational church of Oberlin, O., was born the Anti-Saloon league.

The league was founded originally to support a local option law; but two years later it was organized on a national scale, with a convention at Washington. In a very short time it was making its influence felt in no uncertain fashion.

Power in Politics
The league was primarily an organization supported by the Protestant churches; but its officials, with their brilliant general counsel, Wayne B. Wheeler, soon demonstrated that they knew as much about practical politics as any men in the country.

Party labels meant nothing to the league. It applied to every candidate for office the single test—was he wet or dry? If he was wet, it called on its members and followers to go to the polls and sock him; if he was dry, it demanded, and got, his support.

At Westerville, O., it established its headquarters, with a printing plant. In the decade and a half following 1909 the plant had printed for distribution to the country more than 114,000,000 leaflets, nearly 2,000,000 books, more than 5,000,000 pamphlets, upwards to 2,300,000 placards and approximately 157,000,000 copies of weekly and monthly magazines.

The league's war chest was kept full. In its first 30 years of life it spent fully $55,000,000 to further the cause of prohibition. When the fight was at its hottest it was spending $2,500,000 a year. Nor was this money wasted. The league knew precisely what it wanted and how to get it. Its propagandists were able, its political experts were shrewd.

Sought State Laws
State prohibition laws were the goal at first. When the league celebrated its 20th birthday, in 1913 the list of dry states had increased to nine, and congress had been induced to pass the Webb-Kenyon act, pledging the federal government to help dry states stop importation of liquor from wet territory adjoining.

In that year the league held a jubilee meeting at Columbus, O.—and announced that from that date it would give straight for a federal prohibition law. Two weeks later 4990 men and women paraded in Washington in a prohibition demonstration. The league busied itself in congressional elections, and in 1914 sent no fewer er than 50,000 speakers into the congressional fights. Mr. Wheeler later testified before the senate that it was not unusual at that time for whole freight cars, loaded with prohibition propaganda to be shipped from Westerville in one day. All of this had its effect. A fact not generally recalled today is that in the fall of 1914 a majority of the house of representatives voted for a prohibition amendment. To be sure, the amendment got no farther; but the indication of the league's growing power, and of the growth of prohibition sentiment, was plain enough for any observer. Nevertheless, those most opposed to prohibition paid little attention to it. The organized liquor trade certainly failed to see the handwriting on the wall. Unbiased observers have stated that the liquor trade in a very real way helped to bring prohibition on itself. It permitted the op-ers' association wake up and offer to clean house. By that time it was too late. The tide was rising—or perhaps it would be better to say that it was going out—too fast. The stable door was being locked not only after the horse had been stolen but after he had been spirited away to the other side of the country. By the time the United States entered the World war, in 1917, 26 states had gone dry, and the Anti-Saloon League was ready to introduce the 18th Amendment in congress. The fact that a war was on probably helped the league materially. In the first place, there was an undeniable need to conserve the cereals which were used in the manufacture of liquor. Second, the attention of the country at large was focused on France instead of on prohibition. Third, many of the most prominent anti-prohibition leaders had undeniably Germanic names, which helped to identify prohibition in the popular mind as a war measure. Nevertheless, the signs of the time had been clear before the nation entered the war; and the congress that passed the 18th amendment had been elected before the war. The 18th amendment passed the senate on Aug. 1, 1917. On Dec. 17 of the same year it passed the house. Incidentally J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama, then a congressman and later famous as a bone-dry senator, spoke and voted against it. On Jan. 8, 1918, the amendment got its first ratification—by the Mississippi legislature. On Jan. 14, 1919 it got its 36th—enough to put it into the constitution—by the Nebraska legislature. Twelve other states ratified it later, the last one being New Jersey, which approved the amendment on March 7, 1922. Meanwhile—in September of 1918—congress had passed a law providing for war-time prohibition. This law went into effect on July 1, 1919, after the country had been at peace for more than half a year; but "real prohibition" began on Jan. 16, 1920, when the 18th amendment went into effect. It remains only to note that the Volstead act passed by congress on Sept. 4, 1919, was vetoed by President Wilson on Oct. 27 of the same year and was passed over the veto on the following day.

A RETURN TO BARTER

Are nations to revert to barter to carry on trade relations that have been stopped by the breakdown in the world's monetary system? So it would appear from the recent report of the League of Nations economic section.

According to this report, barter has already replaced normal trade in certain products among fifteen European countries. This movement is taking the form of foreign trade monopolies on all imports, or the more limited plan which may eventually lead to monopoly, of establishing import quotas. France has already gone far in this direction, with quotas on fifty-three imported articles and in the past year twelve countries have resorted to state control of foreign exchange dealings.

In our own hemisphere we have the picture of Chile negotiating with Soviet Russia to exchange nitrate for oil, while our own farm board, contrary to old established individualistic ideas, has been trading surplus wheat to Brazil for some of her extra coffee.

This international bartering is a new development that is challenging thought. With private trade channels blocked by absurd tariffs and because of breakdown in money standards, credit contraction, fear and slack demand, governments are being forced to take over the functions of trade.

Is this development representative of retrogression or is it the forerunner of something new in the stream of human progress? Unquestionably it marks a trend toward socialistic ideas which, having any measure of success, may take firm root in future international trade relations and remain there, even after sound and universally accepted monetary standards have been reestablished.

PERSIA SENDS A PROBLEM

To the necessity of deciding those delicate and intricate questions which affect the social and economic welfare of the land, a new and exceedingly knotty problem is about to be submitted to the American courts.

It seems that one Ahmed Kadjar was Shah of Persia, and when he died, such was the wisdom of this descendant of Omar Khayyam, that he had invested well over a million dollars in this country, necessitating a probate of his estate here.

But in addition to this property he left eight widows, three of whom were mothers of his children. He left a will, and whatever the conditions may be in Persia, lawyers in this country are very particular about the execution of wills.

To make the situation all the more confusing the late ruler's brother upon taking over the decrepit throne of Persia issued a proclamation that "the death of his Imperial Majesty made me, Prince Hassan, successor to all right as sovereign and head of the Imperial House of Kadjar in accordance with the fundamental law of the Persian constitution."

And so the forces are drawing up in array of battle. On the one side are members of the family mentioned in the will; on another side members of the family who weren't mentioned in the will; and glowering at them both the new Shah who claims a ruler of Persia must leave all his property to his successor.

Here, then, concerning a will which happened to have been drawn in Paris, the American courts must determine whether or not in the execution of the will the French law has been strictly obeyed; and concerning property belonging to a Shah of Persia the American courts are again called upon to determine in fact what the Persian law is and whether or not the comity existing between nations decrees that it be enforced even if it is contrary to our own.

"FORDIZED" HOMES

According to a recent news item the "tin lizzie" of automobile fame is to have its counterpart in pressed steel houses, all punched and drilled for speedy assembly and delivered complete with accessories.

A company has been incorporated to manufacture comfortable six-room houses of this type to be sold through dealers on the basis of a thirty-dollar monthly payment. Each house will be one story in height, with a flat roof and plenty of windows. Complete with plumbing, heating units and other modern trimmings, it is to be priced at $3,500.

Comparing this business with the motor industry we may expect to have steel houses as common as automobiles in the near future.

arts of frantic selling. For the newly married couple ready to set up house-keeping, canned showroom demonstrations will take them in two minutes from the chromium-plated front door knobs to the garbage carrier in the rear.

Carrying the analogy to the bitter end, houses will be produced in yearly models with attractive inducements for trade-ins. Then life in the old steel homestead will become bearable while anticipating the time when, on a deal for the latest improved model, the agent can be fooled as to the condition of the leaking roof or the water pipes under the bath room floor.

MAKING THE "STAR"

Henry L. Doherty, personally and through the Cities Service Company, a gigantic holding organization controlling a string of public utilities, has filed damage actions against the Kansas City Star for an additional 42 million dollars. These cases supplement those filed a year ago for 12 million, what looked then like real money but seem now measly justice court affairs.

Mr. Doherty's demands have become preposterous just as they originally appeared to border on the ridiculous.

For the dubious honor of holding first prize in demanding big damages Mr. Doherty has long since outstripped Bishop Cannon. It takes money to start and maintain litigation and the Anti-Saloon league has had such poor pickings in recent years that the Bishop has apparently been unable to grant himself the luxury of million dollar damage actions.

On the other hand, Mr. Doherty, long since infatuated with the glamour of "paper profits" in the construction of one corporation on top of another may be able through some form of delusion to get a thrill out of the entry "To pending damage actions 54 million dollars." Even a settlement at one cent on the dollar, in keeping with the recent German example, would bring in half a million. We suppose that rather than accept such an insignificant settlement Mr. Doherty would use his summons and complaint to light a Havana perfecto.

In the meantime the Kansas City Star keeps plugging away as undisturbed and as unaffected as though Mr. Doherty had sent around a box of his favorite cigars with his complaints.

Its president issued the statement: "The Star has no doubt there is only one purpose in these suits, and that is to divert attention from the gas rate controversy which is now pending a decision in Kansas; these suits are smoke screens; the Star does not intend to be diverted from the issue by a side show which, in our opinion, this is."

The Star's statement looks like a reliable diagnosis. Meanwhile Kansas City lawyers are buying new cars. The sun always shines for someone.

NATIONAL SPIRIT

One of the most interesting things about the current demand for economy in government is the way in which numerous small cities reacted to the recent congressional proposal for an extensive post-office building campaign.

In the old days the "pork barrel" bill was always a sure-fire hit. It got through Congress over and over again because each congressman wanted to make the folks back home think that he was a big shot, and the easiest way to do it was by getting an elaborate postoffice building put up in some town in his district.

In the aggregate, this was very expensive; but such bills almost always got through because the separate districts always thought more of their own bit of pork than they did of the federal budget.

This year, however, things are different. There is, for example, the state of Missouri.

The proposal in the House of Representatives would have given new post-offices to 17 northwestern Missouri towns. But it wasn't long before the people in these towns began to object violently. They would like new buildings very much, but they would prefer to see Uncle Sam practice a little rigid economy. So most of them let their representatives know in unmistakable terms that the pork barrel would make no friends back home this year.

Nor was this phenomenon peculiar to Missouri. It happened in many other parts of the country, in many, many towns. A great many congressmen who thought they were about to make themselves solid with their constituents discovered overnight that they had guessed wrong.

This is very encouraging to a believer in democracy.

One of the things that has kept democracy from functioning as well as it might in the United States has been the triumph of the sectional viewpoint. Too many congressmen have tackled all problems from the local angle and have let the national angle go hang. What we are witnessing now is a revival of the national spirit. It restores one's faith in the republic's integrity.

READING THE FUTURE

Some there are who look and say
All is dark along the way;
Greater troubles still to be
Are the only things they see.
All they find is doubt and dread
In the mists that lie ahead.

Prophets of the gloomy clan
See the certain doom of man;
What the future holds in store
Seems not worth the waiting for,
And the sad, discouraged seers
Find no hope in coming years.

Neither sage nor seer am I,
Born with the gift to prophesy.
But of one thing I am sure,
Love and laughter will endure.
June, whatever else betides,
Will be radiant with brides.

Little babies in July,
Tortured by the heat, will cry;
And when August comes again;
Fields will gleam with golden grain;
Harvest time and winter's snow
To the last will come and go.

AGRICULTURE IN MICHIGAN

Michigan farmers get a congratulatory handshake and a word of encouragement from the agricultural experts in Michigan State college in a report recently issued through co-operation of seven departments of that institution. While not enthusiastically optimistic about returning prosperity, the college authorities declare that the farmers of Michigan are relatively better off than those of many other districts, and distinctly in advantage over many city dwellers. At least they are not out of a job.

In the diversity of their agricultural activities, too, Michigan farmers are more nearly depression-proof than are those tillers of the soil who specialize in single crops. Seventy-five per cent of Michigan's farm sales are in dairy, poultry, livestock, fruits and vegetables. The prices for these commodities in 1931 were 98 per cent of the pre-war level, as compared with 68 per cent for grains and cotton.

With prospects of abundant labor at moderate cost, lower prices for fertilizers and other materials and with tax reductions probable, the problems of the farmers seem about to be simplified. And the college gives the good advice that farmers should as nearly as possible conduct their operations within their resources, avoiding debts and other embarrassing commitments.—Detroit News.

THE OLD MEDICAL FALLACIES ARE THE FUNNIEST

Our Texas reader writes:
I enjoy reading your column and get benefit from it. Your "B. B." is great. I subscribe to the paper solely for your column and current comment. But permit me to say that, like every other human being, you are sometimes wrong. This is true as to your views on alcohol. A doctor friend says: "Dr. Brady is right, and he is wrong. Alcohol is a stimulant and a depressant according to quantity. So far we might debate the question with a perfectly straight face. But our Texas friend waxes melodramatic just when we were listening seriously:
Another doctor says "Alcohol is a specific for the venom of a rattlesnake." No science can equal facts. Science changes, facts do not. My father, two brothers and I were bitten by rattlesnakes. The life of each was saved by alcohol, a great, but dangerous medicine, like strychnine and arsenic in the hands of ignorant people.

This is written for a purpose. If some men, like the writer, should be bitten many miles from a doctor, he may have a sure remedy at hand to save his own life. Please say what you would give for snake bite if the snake serum should not be at hand, and by doing so I am sure you will benefit hundreds of people.

Gladly. First, I can assure our Texas friend that all authorities of scientific standing advise against giving alcohol in any form to the victim of snake bite. Actually the victim's chance to recover is better without treatment of any kind than it is with alcohol.

I must call attention to a characteristic feature of both of the experts or authorities whose views our friend quotes—they're anonymous. For all we know they may be fake "doctors." It would be more impressive if our friend could name authorities he cites. One likes to be sure, at least, that the doctors are men of standing, and not hypothetical authorities.

If I were confronted with rattlesnake bite and had no anti-venom (serum) at hand, here is the treatment I should give or wish given: Immediately make two crisscross incisions or skin deep scratches through the fang marks, with knife, razor blade, needle, bit of glass, tin, thorn or sharp stone. This is to encourage bleeding. Suck this wound for several minutes. About the limb above the bite tie a handkerchief loosely, then insert a stick and twist tightly enough to shut off the circulation. Let this remain not longer than five minutes, and then loosen it for half a minute, then tighten again for another five minutes, and so on indefinitely. Keep the patient at rest—no walking about or running. Administer whatever real stimulants you can get. Alcohol NEVER. Coffee or tea is excellent. Strychnine, atropin, adrenalin are excellent if they are available. Aromatic spirits of ammonia from the first aid kit is a real stimulant.

If a package of anti-venom is in the emergency kit as it should be, if you are traveling, fishing, hunting or camping in snake country, do NOT use the tourniquet or bind the limb after injection of the antidote, for the antidote should be carried as quickly as possible throughout the circulation.

The package of anti-venom sells for $10, or one may rent a package for a weekend trip for a dollar or so. It keeps well for five years or more, and by following the directions in the package any child can successfully administer the serum. It is the best treatment for snakebite.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Ethics My Eye
A correspondent writes a letter describing the satisfactory treatment he received from a physician who evidently has unusual skill in the treatment of certain conditions. The conductor gets almost as much joy from such a letter as though he were the physician himself. But the correspondent rather dashes near. To Scouty he exclaimed:

Wee Scouty shortly whispered, "Hark! The dog is coming near his bark!" And sure enough the dog came out. My goodness, how he ran.
And when he reached the train, he seemed as excited as could be, "If you own him," said Duncy, "I think you're a lucky man."
The trainer said, "Now, Frisky, I am going to ask you to jump high. Much higher, skinnier fellow, than you've ever jumped before."
"The Tynmites will hold the stick and you must show them your best trick. I've told them you are pretty good, and that a treat's in store."

The dog then ran 'way back, to start. The Tynmites shortly saw him dart right for the bar. And then he jumped and cleared it very well.
The Tynmites gave him quite a hand and Coppy shouted, "That was grand." The dog began to wag his tail. He liked to hear folks yell.
A little dwarf then walked up near. To Scouty he exclaimed:

"Come here. I'll show you how to juggle Indian clubs. It will be fun."
"Course Scouty joined him right away. Thought he, I'll learn some tricks today. It wasn't long until the dwarf showed him how it was done.

BELGIUM AS PAWN

On July 11, 1918, Count von Hertling, German chancellor, in an impassioned speech before the Reichstag Main Committee, denied that the intentions of Germany were to force Belgium to hold the country for a time as a pawn for future negotiations with allies.

Progress on the Belkin front was reported. Allies had formed a solid front along a 200-mile line from the Adriatic to Saloniki. Italian troops had advanced to occupy Berat, and French troops rolled on in an advance between the Davoli and the Ossum, west of Kortiza.

British troops, following the example of French forces to the south, mustered reinforcements and began a determined push against the Germans on a mile front on the Lys. Protected by a heavy artillery barrage, they succeeded in pushing forward about half a mile in hand-to-hand fighting.

Hoover-Garner Battle Stirs Up Washington

Each Strives to Keep Other From Gaining Political Advantage

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Who will be the victor in the controversy between President Hoover and Speaker Garner? Each has behind him a substantial following in congress and each is determined to prevent the other from obtaining political advantage out of the passage of the huge relief bill. Efforts at compromise have been made by friends of both sides, since it is recognized that failure to agree on relief legislation may keep congress in session indefinitely this summer.

Probably never before has such a situation existed—a president up for reelection and the speaker of the house nominated for the vice presidency on the opposite political ticket. Back of the speaker, of course, is a group of Democratic leaders equally determined that Mr. Hoover shall not have his way. Ever since the early days of the present session when, for a brief period, there was an era of non-partisanship and cooperation, the hostility between Messrs. Hoover and Garner has been reflected in statements bristling with charges and counter charges.

The president has had somewhat the advantage because congress as an institution is extremely unpopular nowadays and Speaker Garner received a setback in prestige when he failed to get the sales tax program through the house in the first important test of leadership. It is true the sales tax was at that time unpopular but the house of representatives was presented to the country ever afterward as leaderless, a point which Mr. Hoover has not hesitated to hammer home in his drive for economy.

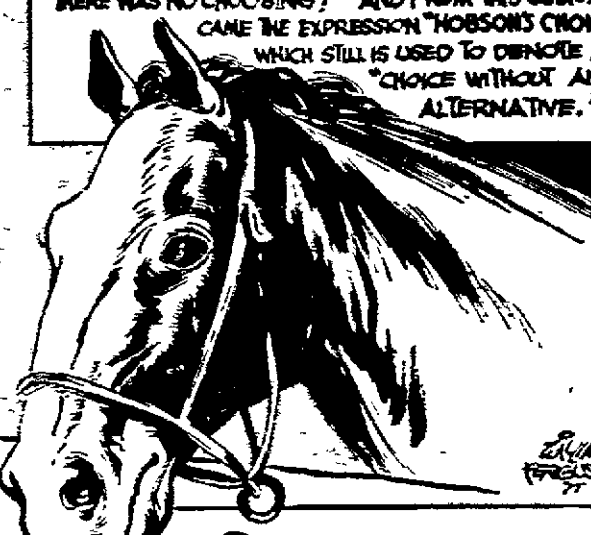

Climax At Capital
So the present fight is the climax of war, more or less intermittent, which culminates now in an even more spectacular setting since the conventions elevated Mr. Garner to a post of second in command in his party.

The Democratic nominee has declared for a "redistribution of

76 Homes Visited by Nurse During Month

Mrs. Josephine Verstegen, city nurse, made professional calls during June for cases of tonsillitis, pleurisy, bronchitis, pneumonia, poison ivy, diabetes, colds, skin conditions, goiter, senile arthritis, whooping cough, measles, chicken pox, and other medical cases. The nurse visited 114 patients in 76 homes during the month, did 11 surgical dressings, administered first aid seven times, made eight prenatal and maternity calls and 26 calls in the interest of child welfare and social service. She was on duty 197 hours during the month.

wealth" and has claimed that the government through its loans has failed to take care of the "forgotten man," having cared instead for banks and railroads and corporate enterprise. To this the Republicans reply that the record shows loans by the Reconstruction Finance corporation mostly in the small towns; in fact 90 per cent of them all in cities of less than 50,000 population.

But Mr. Garner wants to lend money directly to the "forgotten man" and nothing seems calculated to keep the presidential oil more astir than this, unless it is the federal dole itself.

These last few days of congress are tense because they will furnish the ammunition for weeks of campaign debate. Speaker Garner is trying to carry out the wishes of this party chief in making it possible for any individual with collateral to borrow from the government. His opponents say this is state Socialism—putting the government into the credit business with a vengeance.

And so goes the fight, while the nation waits in suffering and

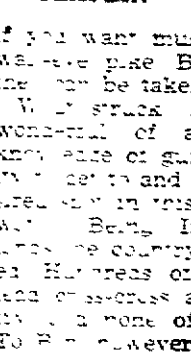

Muskies, Bass and Pike Abound in Reservation

BY BERT CLAFLIN

As stated in my last article I will tell you today of an experience I had last week while on a trip to the Flambeau Indian reservation in Vilas county. I spent several days there under the guidance of Ben Chose an Ojibway Indian. Ben has been guiding for years and knows every one of the thousands of waters in the north country.

If you want muskies, or bass or walleye pike Ben knows where they can be taken.

Ben struck me as the most wonderful of all his Uncanny knowledge of guiding was his ability to find and back from any depth of water in this vast labyrinth of water. Ben's Indian reservation knowledge is heartily wood. Ben's knowledge of guiding is heartily wood. Ben's knowledge of guiding is heartily wood.

CLAFLIN

On this trip I took with me for the first time a new and expensive fly rod made to my order by Heddon for the express purpose of bass fishing. We reached first a lake some twelve miles east of Gunlock which my guide wished me to try. It was no name and rather small but very deep.

"Big Oswegos in here" Ben assured me, as we prepared to shove away from the shore. He was right. Scarcely had we gone fifty yards when I had a vicious strike. Ben drew the landing net from under the seat of the boat in readiness to do the old scrapper up. But it was several minutes before we even had a look at the fish. The bass lay and I was using held him in the snare but it must be handled properly and in a far different manner than a sport casting rod unless one makes disaster.

We finally landed him and found later that he weighed a bit over four pounds. We took two more good ones from this small lake and then my guide announced that we were to catch a water. Our next stop was at Catfish Lake. Here the bass were very plentiful, both Oswegos and the small mouths. And here I used the generally accepted opinion that the former cannot be taken on a surface artificial fly. In fact, Ben expressed himself as very dubious of any luck when he saw me trying on the first fly. But I caught four nice specimens in a few minutes. They averaged about a pound and a half apiece, one weighing nearly three.

We fished this lake and another named Plumier until dark, and came away with the limit of fine ones. In my next article I shall tell you more about the grand fishing region.

In this High-pressure Age smokers want a Milder Cigarette

WE LIVE in a fast-moving age. We work harder... play harder... travel quicker. And we smoke more cigarettes.

But there's this about it: They have got to be milder today. In this high-pressure age, smokers don't like strong cigarettes.

About four miles of warehouses are filled with mild, ripe, Domestic tobaccos, stored away to age for two years to make them mild and mellow for CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes.

To make sure that CHESTERFIELD is a milder cigarette, the greater part of 90 million dollars is invested in the tobaccos used in CHESTERFIELD. These tobaccos are "Cross-Blended."

This "Welding" Together—or "Cross-Blending"—permits every kind of tobacco used in the CHESTERFIELD blend to partake of the best qualities of every other type. It's the same principle that Burbank used in crossing different fruits to make a still better fruit.

CHESTERFIELDS are milder... never harsh... and that's why, in this high-pressure age, more smokers, men and women, are changing to CHESTERFIELDS every day.

Peary's "Snow Baby" Girl On Memorial Trip to North

New York—Mrs. Marie Ahnighita Peary Stafford, the "snow baby," born farther north than any other child in the world, is on her way back to Greenland. She will assist in the erection of a monument in memory of her famous father, Admiral Robert E. Peary, whose quest and achievement of the North Pole in 1909 is a bright chapter of American history.

Mrs. Stafford is the wife of a Washington attorney now. She has two sons, Edward, 14, and Peary, 12, who are accompanying her. But she is remembered mainly as the child born in '93 at Cape York. The stories of the years when she didn't know whether her father was lost on his trek through the ice or would come back, and her own five childhood Arctic expeditions are being revived as the schooner Effie M. Morrissey is heading for Arctic waters.

Captain Bob Bartlett, Admiral Peary's skipper, is donating his schooner and his crew for the task. Captain Bartlett, who will lay the cornerstone, is considered one of the best ice navigators in the world.

The monument which will rise 60 feet, will be crowned with a cap of noncorrosive steel, which will catch the reflections of the mid-night sun and serve as a shining beacon to ships that pass.

The expedition will mobilize Eskimos from along the coast to help the masons among Bartlett's crew erect the memorial, which will be the only one of its kind in that part of the world.

Badger Utility Rates Ordered Cut $2,349,802

Reductions, Applying in 224 Communities Affect 419,392 Subscribers

Madison — (P)—The state public service commission announced in a statement today that rates for telephone, electric light and power, gas and water services in Wisconsin have been cut $2,349,802 under orders or authorization of the commission since it was reorganized a year ago.

The reductions apply in 224 communities and affect 419,392 subscribers of the utility companies involved, the commission said.

The total figures were recapitulated as follows:

Type of Service	Reductions	Subscribers
Telephone	$1,336,281	313,985
Electric	497,596	64,098
Gas	214,825	11,966
Water	51,300	29,343

The reductions, the commission said, are all for a period of one year and were mostly of a temporary character. Many of the cuts resulted from voluntary action on the part of the utilities while others were ordered by the commission after investigation to be made.

The largest single reduction is that affecting the Wisconsin Telephone company and its 300,000 subscribers. Pending final determination in the state-wide telephone investigation the company recently was ordered to cut its rate 12 1/2 per cent for local exchange service, or a total of $1,550,066.18.

Rates of 44 independent telephone companies in widely scattered parts of the state and involving 13,935 subscribers have been reduced $36,215 while cuts affecting numerous other companies are pending the commission said.

In the number of plants involved the electric utilities are most widely represented in the reductions and the great majority of them are municipally owned. There are 80 in all, with 64,098 subscribers benefited.

Among the larger ones were the Wisconsin Power and Light company which has agreed to a $45,000 reduction for 9,000 rural subscribers; the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company, whose rates have been cut $21,043; the Wisconsin Gas and Electric, $27,000 for residential service and $22,800 for street lighting; Kaukauna municipal plant, $12,000; Northern States Power company, $17,200; Willow River Power company, $16,000; New London Municipal plant, $12,500 and the Waupun municipal plant, $10,500.

The Wisconsin Gas and Electric headed the list among the gas utilities with a cut of $208,100; and then came Wisconsin Southern Gas company, $1,900; Peoples Gas company, Marshfield, $1,600 and the Merrill Gas company, $590, all having total subscribers of 11,966.

Eleven water utilities were represented in the $51,300 cut for this type of service. The LaCrosse, Oshkosh and Sheboygan water department were among the largest.

Boll Weevils Threaten Dixie Cotton Yields

Insects and Weather May Solve Over-Production Problems

Atlanta — (P)— Boll weevils and the weather may do what legislators were unable to accomplish last spring—control cotton production in the south.

From practically every section east of the Mississippi river where cotton is grown have come reports of heavy weevil infestation. Heavy rains have caused grass to grow rapidly and aided the spread of weevils.

County farm agents in south Alabama report boll weevils very active and "ready to attack squares as soon as they are large enough." In Dallas county, which led the state in cotton production prior to weevil infestation, the pests are 50 per cent more active than a year ago.

Spartanburg-co, South Carolina, reported a 300 per cent increase in weevil infestation in a period of 10 days.

Union-co, South Carolina, sent reports of as high as 500 weevils per acre, which is an extraordinarily heavy infestation.

J. C. Holton, commissioner of agriculture in Mississippi and weevil infestation in that state is very heavy and will greatly decrease production.

"If the heavy weevil infestation continues," Holton added, "farmers must soon decide whether to sacrifice the feed crops and fight the weevils, or to cultivate the feed crops and intensify cotton effort to smaller and favored areas."

The pink boll worm has made its appearance in Florida, and fear that it may spread its activities into south Georgia cotton fields has put Georgia agricultural authorities on the alert for a fight against the new pest.

The boll weevil is active in Georgia, but no unusual infestations have been reported to date.

Farm experts attribute the heavy weevil infestation this year to the mild months of the past winter which prevented them from being frozen out in their hiding places.

No estimates of the extent of weevil damage has been made.

What with everyone going away the little old town will soon be deserted. By train, by auto, by bus and even by foot... but there will always be some of us left to do the regular washing, ironing and house cleaning. That's why I haven't forgotten a few home making details a wealth of vacation ideas.

THIS MAY sound prosaic talking about the family washing but it isn't really when you've seen the Voss washing machine at GALT'S that scuds the old clothes round and round to a shining whiteness with a speed that makes Monday a gala day instead of blue! But the point that's grand about this machine is the little doogadog on the wringer that's a safety device that sort of folds right up when you bump it even with your arm when you've caught your clothes in the wringer or worse still a piece of your arm. It completely surrounds the wringer so that it really is an automatic safety device that works. Then, too, the portable tubs caught my eye, exactly the right height so that no back straining is necessary. Mounted on rolling casters so they're easy to move and convenient... why you might even convert one into the baby's bath tub with ease and put it to use on other days besides Monday.

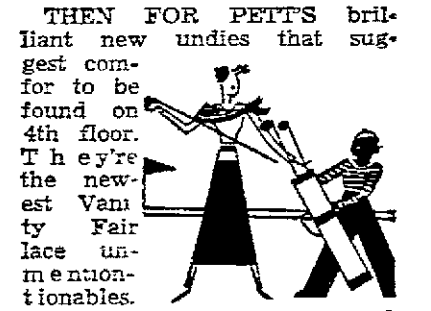

FIRST OF ALL, the Vacation Girl should by all laws of beauty have a permanent as the primary step to a ch a r m and ELLYN'S is the logical place to have it simply because ELLYN does such superb work...

Hers is the shop over Voigt's drug store you know. And the other bright idea for a corner of the old kit bag is a round flat jar of complexional, the new cream that does wonders to any trip. It is sweet smelling stuff, made from almond, oils and what not, that is terribly good for your skin. It serves as a cleanser, skin food, astringent, and believe it or not, powder. The thin coating of complexional is lovely because it brings out the natural color of the skin and makes it glisten with a transparent look that is irresistible to gaze upon.

THEN AT VOGUE HAT SHOP my pet place down on the avenue, I've come up with some intriguing hats that actually tuck away in small places without ruining them. They're soft, brimmed, suede sport hats of pastel colors that are cute as a part monkey. And cost but a dollar, my dears! Loads of bonnets here would be of smart service to the vacationer. I've my eye on a darling suede in white with a yellow facing on the brim and a soft woven material that has a felt band with yarn worked into it in a most engaging sport manner. Don't forget you'll find washable white zipper purses here for a dollar, too!

LEAVE IT TO THE TREASURE BOX to have something grand up their sleeve! Today the lesson is on Picnicking and How to Dress Them Up Proper. My dears, you'll find this spot, in the new shop remember, a haven of picnic ideas. Delightful wafers, sandwiches, wraps, various sized and altogether gay paper plates in lovely colors and flower motifs... packages and packages of plates, paper napkins (the kind that look like linen) and tablecloths to match, for 10 cents the package! On, the list runs on and on taking in bright colored coasters, spoons for iced drinks, salad forks and knives that simply outdo themselves for cheerful color.

WHILE we're on the subject of Home Sweet Home we might go into a dissertation on Diet and How to Keep Fit through no other method than using big, shining bottles of pure, sweet milk fresh from APPLETON PURE MILK DAIRY! Now here is a food that has grand summer possibilities with a wealth of food value in each glassful of the cool, fresh liquid. Drink more milk in the summertime. It keeps your complexion at par, gives you pep and keeps the kiddies plump and happy. You see, this dairy's milk is healthfully pasteurized and of excellent quality, that's why it's best to use it every day and plenty of it. I found that a glass of milk with wafers is welcome for afternoon bites at our house.

WHETHER it's by land or by sea, by boating it across some quaint, out of the way shore line or thumb jerking your way to San Francisco you're going on your vacation, here are some bits of gossip on how to make the trip more interesting by way of supplies.

Oh and the lace is so fine and filmy banded with a fine spun plain glove silk along the sides. The whole thing is glove silk mind you, with the lace an entrancing relief to the usual ordinary kind. Brassieres match, panties are tailored on a band in front with a side buttoning, or flat with an elastic. Or if you'd rather, a gorgeous all lace chemise or a combination that has a brassiere top and firm middle of plain glove silk. The point about them is that they run around a $1. (a bit more for the combination) and the things wash elegantly and there's no ironing necessary! Isn't that a smart thing to tuck into one's bag for a trip, they take up little room and need no ironing.

BUT THAT'S not all I've found in the line of comfort! No indeed, for up at Miss Paquette's corner department is the BABY SHOP, you will find girdles with an honest to goodness two way stretch and coolness that's unbelievable. Girdles for golf, tennis, all sports wear in general and they're as light as a feather. You can dance, dine or go walking in them with marvelous ease, because they fit snugly around the neckline and made of cool elastic and can't weigh many ounces. With these you'll find some cool bandeaux of net and broadcloth for about fifty-nine cents.

YOU'LL never resist one of the flaming beach outfits of seersucker if HERNER'S if you don't, especially for $1.95 per pajama and per coat! In gay striped abandon the wide, mannish, slack-like trousers fit over the curtest blouses ever made. Backless with two cross straps buttoning at the waistline, the dizzy stripes in the blouse run diagonally to meet plump in center front with a gesture of style. Of course, the pants have a belt that looks very elegant and worth getting the rest of the outfit to go along with it. The coats are longish around the knees, long sleeved and patch pocketed.

Third Parties Galore Enter National Race

Each Has Own Favored Planks to Lay Before American Voters

Washington (AP)—Almost numberless "third parties" again this presidential-election year beckon to the dissenters from orthodox tickets and platforms.

To millions of voters, of course, November offers just a choice between Hoover and Roosevelt, but there remain the aspiring organizers of new groups with their wide assortment of ideas and candidates.

Backers of at least three of these minority movements hope they can play a role comparable to Theodore Roosevelt's "Bull Moose" party of 1912 or to Bob La Follette's Progressive parties of 1924.

They are: The Prohibition party, representing one wing of the country's dry sentiment; the "Liberal party," grouping the more radical independents of the central and western agricultural zone; and the League for Independent Political Action, based largely on the strength of political reformers in the east.

The Democratic and Republican conventions took the headlines and national attention, but before, during and after the major party activity, these three and others met to prepare for the November battle.

First of the minority groups in national attention up to now has been the Prohibition party. This group, which existed even before the turn of the century, blossomed into new life at Indianapolis last week because of the wet trend in the platforms of both major parties.

Want Borah to Lead

To record a resounding anti-wet protest, it sought the leadership of Senator Borah of Idaho and the support of the big dry organizations. Neither materialized immediately, so the party offers as its presidential candidate William D. Upshaw, ex-congressman and dry lecturer from Georgia. He is willing and anxious to quit the saddle the moment Borah or another national figure agrees to take that leadership.

Two other groups aspiring to independent leadership pitch their platforms on economic grounds, both left-wing and liberal or radical, depending on the point of view.

The Liberal party, claiming to be a fusion of Farmer-Labor, Progressive and Socialist parties, the Monetary league and the Farmers' union, put forward in Kansas City July 4 a ticket headed by Frank Elbridge Webb of California, the Farmer-Labor candidate of 1928. He received 5,390 votes four years ago. Jacob S. Coxey, W. H. "Coxey" Harvey, and such men are leading figures in the party's activity.

The Farmer-Labor party executive committee, though, in an Omaha meeting yesterday disavowed the action of the "liberals" rejecting Webb's nomination and selecting Coxey. So the "Liberal party's" "fusion" did not fuse so well.

Started by New Yorker

Third of the big "third parties," the League of Independent Political Action held its convention in Cleveland this weekend. Brainchild of John Dewey, New York philosopher and constant champion of better conditions for labor, public control of utilities, international leveling of tariff walls, civil liberty, disarmament and such causes, the movement centered on a definite platform.

It gave its qualified indorsement, however, to Norman E. Thomas, presidential choice of the Socialist party. Besides strictly Socialist strength, Thomas has a wide following among intellectual independents. Four years ago he was the third candidate on votes polled, amassing more than a quarter million.

Besides these three groups and their components, the Communist Workers party offers again William Z. Foster, recipient of nearly 50,000 votes in the election which made Herbert Hoover president. The Socialist-Labor party puts forward Vernie L. Reynolds, one-time steamfitter, who through various minority parties in 1928 received 21,000 votes from 19 states.

Many other lesser groups are in the field, again this year with "Labor," "Industrial," "National" and similar labels to identify them. One of these, known simply as the "National party," at Indianapolis Saturday nominated John Zahnd of Indianapolis, as its candidate.

A survey of the entire list has yet to disclose anything entirely new or anything definitely pointed so far toward great strength.

BACKING FOR COXEY

Omaha, Neb. (AP)—"General" Jacob S. Coxey, who sprang into public notice in 1902 when he led an army of unemployed men to Washington in quest of relief, seeks to reach the capitol again—this time taking the ballot route.

Roy M. Harrop, chairman of the executive committee of the National Farmer-Labor party, last night announced the committee, assembled here yesterday, had chosen Coxey as the party's presidential nominee. He succeeds Frank E. Webb of Washington and San Francisco, who was repudiated several weeks ago because the committee charged he was a "spy" for President Hoover.

As his running mate, Coxey may have Walter W. Waters of Portland, Ore., commander-in-chief of the Bonus Expeditionary force now seeking an immediate bonus payment to World war veterans now in camp at Washington.

The executive committee announced that the vice presidential nominees will be selected from among five men by a mail vote of the entire membership.

Coxey, Harrop, has a personal preference for Waters. The other four are W. C. Crosby, Minneapolis; Robert L. McLendon, Vossburg,

Women Invited to Farm Folks Field Day Event

A "live at home" program is being featured for women at the farm folks field day at Sturgeon Bay Thursday, according to word received by Miss Harriet Thompson, county home demonstration agent, from Nellie Kedzie Jones, state home economics leader. Women of the county are being urged by Miss Thompson to attend the event with their husbands.

Mrs. Luella Mortenson of the home economics extension staff will talk over with the women problems of jelly-making, the best methods for canning, using the fruit and vegetable budget, and the home storage of fruits and vegetables.

In her talk on New Things in Foods and Nutrition, Mrs. Mortenson plans to bring to the women some of the new discoveries along these lines which can be applied to practical everyday home-making problems.

Escaped Criminal Is Apprehended by Police

Gus Yahr, formerly of DePere and Appleton, who escaped from state prison at Waupun about 14 months ago, was captured here this morning by Police Chief George T. Prim. Officers Carl Radtke and Albert Delgen, Yahr, who was sentenced to prison from Green Bay following his arrest on a charge of burglary, has been sought since his escape from prison. Yahr was seen walking from the city on N. Richmond street this morning by Officer Delgen, who was off duty. The officer recognized the man and called the station and with Chief Prim and Officer Radtke they captured him. Waupun prison officials were notified and G. S. Taft, a deputy warden, arrived here at noon to take Yahr back to prison.

Miss: Newton Jenkins, Chicago, and Milo Renc, Agency, Iowa.

Leads Another Party

Webb, following his expulsion from the Farmer-Labor ranks, was made the presidential nominee of the "United party," organized recently at Kansas City. Two members of the Farmer-Labor party executive committee who backed his candidacy before the unity convention face possible exile from Farmer-Labor ranks as a result of that action. Harrop announced that the group meeting here yesterday voted in favor of cancelling their committee membership. This question also, will be submitted to a mail vote of the full committee. Harrop said 21 states were represented at the meeting either by national committeemen or by proxies.

The pair facing dismissal because of their allegiance to Webb are Frank Lawson of Washington, D. C., and Roland C. Bruner of Kansas City.

Coxey who is now 78, last night wired his acceptance of the nomination, and advised the committee he plans a vigorous speaking campaign. He is scheduled to arrive here July 29 to begin a two-week speaking tour of Iowa and Nebraska.

Inaugurated mayor of Massillon, Ohio, last January, Coxey believes, as he did in 1894, in the federal government issuing money at cost to aid the unemployed.

Bonus Army Parades in Washington on July 4th

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS (Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor)

Washington—Red, white and blue stars and beams and flickers crashed about the Washington Monument, gold and green and purple flamed and fell last Monday to shock the National Capital into realization that here was another Independence day, and there was Congress still sitting up on the hill, and the next holiday was two months away.

There were all sorts of ways of celebrating the Fourth, perhaps the most unusual of all or of any Fourth in history was the mute parading of the stubbornly-staying, just-why-they-don't-know, Bonus Army, including some Wisconsin men. Deserted by various service bands which made their earlier parades somewhat impressive, the ragged, puzzling now rather than pathetic, vets marched along Pennsylvania Avenue.

The absence from the city of David Burnett, commission of internal revenue, over the holiday weekend, left a badger in a most responsible position at a very busy time.

Ralph Smith, formerly of Merrill, is assistant commissioner of Internal revenue and always serves as acting commissioner in the absence of his chief. The international revenue bureau is one of the busiest departments in Washington now because of various sundry and complicated tax changes to be promulgated and explained and enforced.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith hope to get to Wisconsin this summer but are too busy to make definite plans as yet. Their daughter, Mary Virginia, expects to receive enough credits by the end of summer school on August 1 to secure her diploma from the University of Wisconsin.

and the Smiths had hoped to visit the Badger state by that date and then bring Miss Smith home with them.

Mrs. Smith entertained a Madison visitor, Miss Helen Breck, Tuesday.

Four Wisconsin congressional families have deserted the capital, although Congress continues its work with at this writing, no definite date for adjournment.

Rep. and Mrs. Thomas R. Amie of Elkhorn, Rep. and Mrs. James A. Frear of Hudson, Rep. and Mrs. Herbert Peaver of Washburn, and Rep. and Mrs. John M. Nelson of Madison have all left Washington for Wisconsin. Mrs. John J. Blaine and Mrs. Gerald Boileau have been gone for some time, leaving their husbands temporarily "bacheloring" it in the capital.

Instead of leaving ahead of time, or even on time, Mrs. John C. Schafer of Milwaukee is afraid she'll be somewhat late getting back to Wisconsin even if congress adjourns soon now.

Mrs. Schafer is still recuperating from her recent very terrible automobile accident. Although she escaped without any broken bones from the wreck, which completely demolished her car, she is not yet able to return to Rep. Schafer's office.

Nominee's Wife Was a Roosevelt Before Marriage

Franklin D. Is Distant Relative of "T. R." Married His Niece

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of five articles on the life of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"There is nothing like keeping the name in the family."

That was the dry remark of President Theodore Roosevelt, when his niece Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, married Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt about 25 years ago.

Yola Franklin Roosevelt, a distant relative of the president, had been in the White House. Franklin's wife referred to the president as "Uncle Ted."

It was because of the wedding that Franklin, quite without intention, caused Tammany some trouble. President Roosevelt attended the wedding, which coincidentally was on St. Patrick's day and the day of a big Tammany parade. The church was off Fifth avenue not far from the parade and the president had to cross Fifth avenue to get to the church.

Again coincidentally he crossed the avenue just at the height of Tammany's march, so the story goes, and the crowds saw "T. R."

Thereupon the crowd turned its back on Tammany and followed the president to the church.

It is said that Tammany marched with but a small audience for some distance.

The president also virtually stole the wedding from the bride and bridegroom, for the wedding guests probably paid more attention to him than to the young couple. Incidentally Alice Roosevelt, now Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of the president, was bridesmaid.

It was at Harvard that "T. R." assumed large proportions in Franklin's mind. Whether the dramatic figure of his distant relative in the White House turned him definitely to politics is not known, but it was a great influence, and only shortly after graduation he entered the race for senator from Dutchess county, New York, and won.

National Capital as does another son, Michael Mark McNamee, newspaperman.

Lieut. and Mrs. McNamee are enroute to their new post, the Tank School at Fort Benning, Ga.

Falcons Whip Darboy, 6 to 2 In League Tilt

Only Six Scattered Hits Are Recorded Off of Konetzke's Hurling

Menasha—Working smoothly behind Manager "Tony" Konetzke's pitching, the Menasha Falcons defeated the Darboy aggregation 6 to 2 in a little Fox league contest at the city ball park Sunday afternoon. Konetzke allowed only six scattered hits.

A hit, an error, a sacrifice, and a double steal gave the Darboy squad one run in the first frame, but the Falcons moved into the lead in the same inning when Zelinski walked, advanced to third on Nadolney's single, and scored on a wild pitch. Cash and Majeski walked and Nadolney scored the second run when Stietz grounded to second.

Cash scored for the Falcons in the third frame when he reached first on Dombrowski's error, stole second, advanced to third on Dombrowski's grounded out, and crossed the plate on another wild pitch by Simon.

The seventh inning gave the Falcons three additional runs and put the game on ice. Zelinski and Nadolney, the first two men up, were retired, but Cash singled and Dombrowski drove a home run high over the right field wall. Joe Majeski singled, advanced to third on a double by Stietz, and scored on another hit by Zenevski. Omar was thrown out, short to first to retire the side.

After the first inning, the Darboy team was held scoreless and almost hitless until the last frame. Double plays in the fourth, sixth and eighth innings checked their rallies, and in the ninth, two hits and an error by Cash gave them only one run.

Mr. Schmidt was born Dec. 25, 1856, at Borkwitz, Pommern, Germany. He came to America in 1881, settling in Neenah, where he had resided since. He was married in 1886 to Anna Krempin, who preceded him in death 10 years ago.

There will be no inquest, according to Martin Potratz, county coroner, who heard witnesses who saw the accident. Mr. Jorgenson, it was testified did everything possible to avoid hitting Mr. Schmidt, sound- ed his horn several times and even endangered himself and John Hewitt, who was riding with him, in order to avoid striking him.

100 Twin City Men Reach Camp Douglas

Neenah—One hundred twin city young men, members of Co. I and Headquarters companies, were among the 3,500 Wisconsin National Guardsmen who Saturday afternoon reached Camp Douglas for the annual two weeks' encampment. Fourteen train loads of soldiers arrived at the camp during the day, according to word from Co. I. Advance detachments carrying supplies and equipment arrived the day before and early Saturday morning.

Immediately upon arrival, which was shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the local boys were taken to the camp hospital for physical examinations. The remainder of the time before taps was spent in unpacking equipment, cleaning rifles, setting up kitchens and supply dumps, and making strength reports. The encampment is the largest of the summer camps.

Sunday was a day of leisure, with the usual church services in the morning and three to themselves during the afternoon and evening. On Monday intensive drill exercises, schools for sergeants and officers' school were started.

Flees Following Auto Collision

William Hanson, Neenah, Caught, and Fined in Municipal Court

Neenah—Pursued all the way to Omro and nearly back to Oshkosh by a woman whose car he struck on W. Algoma-st. Oshkosh, last Friday night, William Hanson, Neenah, was finally stopped. He was fined $25 and costs or sentenced to 30 days in jail, Saturday in municipal court. In addition, he must pay the fine and serve the jail term if he does not make immediate arrangements to pay for damages to the other car, owned by Mrs. Elmore Heinzel, Oshkosh.

County Judge D. McDonald, presiding in the absence of Judge Spengler, was informed by police that Hanson fled after having been involved in the accident, but that Mrs. Heinzel pursued him to Omro and overtook him on the return trip, when Hanson's car ran out of gas.

Hanson said he was acquainted with both Mrs. Heinzel and her former husband, Wenzel Heinzel, Judge McDonald, who also presided in the Heinzel divorce action, questioned Hanson as to whether there had been any purpose or motive connected with the collision.

Hanson declared he did not remember hitting the car and did not know there had been an accident. He admitted he had been drinking and the court remarked if he had been drinking and did not know any more about what occurred than he stated, he perhaps should have been charged with driving while intoxicated.

The defendant asserted he supposed the accident was a result of just carelessness. He promised to make immediate arrangements to pay for damages to the car, asserting he carried full insurance.

Court to Hear Testimony in Casein Case

Badger Dairymen Interested in Matter in Washington, D. C.

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—An annual court case of special interest to Wisconsin dairy farmers and Wisconsin paper manufacturers was to be heard here Monday in the District of Columbia supreme court.

Justice F. Dickinson Letts, a former member of Congress from temporary restraining order to prevent the United States tariff commission from forwarding to the president its report of an investigation of the comparative costs of producing casein in the United States and the Argentine under the terms of the flexible provision of the tariff act.

The hearing Monday was to determine whether the injunction should be permanent pending a trial of the case. The injunction is asked by the National Cooperative Milk Producers federation, which has Wisconsin members. Casein is a by-product of milk used in making paper. Under the present tariff law, a duty of 54 cents a pound prevails on imported casein. Dairy interests sought a duty of 8 cents. Paper makers sought to have the duty kept at 24 cents, as was provided in the 1922 act. The compromise of 54 cents was supported by Sen. John J. Blaine of Escobedo, who opposed the higher duty sought by dairy interests. The compromise was adopted.

Users of casein asked for an investigation with a view to lowering the existing duty under the flexible provisions. The senate had passed a resolution asking an investigation of comparative costs, but had rescinded its action. The tariff commission, however, went on with the investigation.

The milk producers' federation case is based on an attack on the commission's method of procedure. "For some years," says Charles W. Holman, secretary of the federation, "there has been a growing difference of opinion between the tariff commission and representatives of agricultural organizations over the methods by which the commission has undertaken investigation of agricultural products and the procedure adopted by the commission at its hearings."

"The commission's procedure has become more and more secret with the result that the public hearings have degenerated into formal affairs and interested parties now have no opportunity to know anything at all concerning the type of evidence secured by the commission, the time-period set by the commission for comparative purposes, or anything whatsoever concerning the commission's tentative findings as to comparative costs."

"There has also been a tendency in recent years on the part of the commission to abandon farm costs as a basis of arriving at the costs of production of agricultural products such as casein."

"The commission has tended, according to our information, to accept the prices paid for agricultural products as the start of its cost of production studies."

"Such a program automatically excludes from the commission's mind the farmers of the respective countries as competitors whenever such products undergo even the simplest forms of conversion."

"We believe that the present procedure of the commission violates our rights under the law, and we propose to let the courts decide whether the commission or the farmers are in the wrong."

It will be remembered that the dairy organizations wanted casein taken from the chemical schedule and put under the agricultural schedules of the tariff bill, but failed to obtain this transfer.

When a hearing on the casein duty was held June 9, the representatives of the dairy organizations refused to participate when the commission rejected requests they made for public presentation of evidence when the commission, according to the dairymen, was conducting from interested parties.

Rep. William H. Stafford of Milwaukee went to bat the other day in Congress for the kids ice cream cones and the kids ice cream cones. Rep. John C. Schafer assured him that the right of the children of the National Capital to eat ice cream cones was in no way threatened by the proposed legislation.

The measure was a proposed change in the weights and measures law of the District of Columbia, particularly on the standard measures for ice cream, sherbet, and soft drink foods.

The dairymen of the measures by which ice cream may be sold started with half-gallons and went to two and a half gallons.

Rep. Stafford, who watches every piece of legislation, no matter how important or how trivial with the eye of a microscope, arose and said:

"A casual reading of the proposed senate amendment would seem to bar the sale in the District of Columbia of ice cream cones, because the measure provides that no cone shall be sold a half pint."

Rep. Schafer assured him that the change in the law related only to the two and a half gallon size and that it will be as legal hereafter to sell ice cream cones as it is now, and that besides the report on the bill clearly stated that it does not refer to cones or similar containers. Rep. Schafer, who has three children himself, told the bachelor congressman that he had called up several ice cream companies and had been told that the legislation did not affect cones.

Rep. Stafford was a little doubtful, but he finally accepted the assurances and let the amendment be adopted.

Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, heads the list of speakers at the eighth summer session of the American Institute of Cooperation which will be held at the University of New Hampshire, Durham, N. H., Aug. 1-6. The institute, according to its announcement, "will give special attention to the effect of the economic depression upon agricultural organizations and the contribution of cooperations toward remedying the farmers' present plight."

President Frank is scheduled to offer his conception of the social role of the cooperative societies. The department of justice has cleared title to 688 acres of land in Price-co, bought from the Park Falls State Bank for $1,136, and 2-228 acres in Bayfield-co, bought from the American Immigration company for $3,008, both for the department of agriculture.

Wisconsin citizens of Polish descent will be happy to learn that Congress has passed the resolution asking the president to issue a proclamation calling upon officials of the government to display the flag of the United States on all government buildings on Oct. 11, 1932, and inviting the people of the country to observe the day in the schools, or other suitable places, with appropriate ceremonies. The day is the anniversary of the death of Gen. Casimir Pulaski's death.

Gen. Pulaski was a Polish lover of liberty who fought in the American revolution, in whose honor a statue stands near the White House, towns and cities in many states are named, and a special stamp was issued last year in commemoration of his services. Rep. John C. Schafer of Milwaukee is always active in obtaining commemoration of Pulaski's death, and helped unveil a statue in his honor in Georgia last year.

Wisconsin men who have recently accepted appointments or promotions in the army reserves include: Maj. George Hewitt Boyer, Ashland; ordnance; Capt. James Aloysius Turner, Marshfield; infantry; Fred Albert Sauger, Reedsburg; Melvin Darling Ure, Neillsville; and Matt Francis Cary Konop, Two Rivers; First Lieutenant; infantry.

New London Loses To Pella, 10-9, but Leads Ball League

Weyauwega, Pace Setters, Drops Double Header To Sugar Bush

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Although New London lost a baseball game at Pella Sunday afternoon 10 to 9, the team went into first place when Weyauwega lost a double header to Sugar Bush. Errors and inability to hit Povooske in the punches wrecked New London chances.

New London took the lead in the first inning when they scored twice and held it until the third when they again scored. Pella woke up in the last of the third when they scored four times on three hits and two errors. The score was tied in the fourth and New London apparently clinched the game in the sixth when they ran three men across the home plate. The local's defense blew sky high in the eighth, however, when four errors and one hit gave Pella five runs. In the ninth Dayton drew a walk and Bessett got his fourth hit of the day, a home run to tie the score.

In the tenth inning a Pella man tried to beat out a slow roller and was called safe by the umpire. On stealing second he was again called safe and scored the winning run on Nelson's single.

The lineup follows:

New London	AB	R	H

Results of Sunday's games in the Little Wolf league showed Clintonville and Bear Creek splitting a double header. Clintonville won the first game, 20 to 3, and lost the second, 15 to 23. Sugar Bush bumped the league leading Weyauwega team in a double header, winning the first 7-3 and the second game 2-0. Standings of the several teams are as follows:

The first whipping post Ohio has seen in 50 years was invoked at Millersburg, O., for the punishment of two men who admitted stealing a refrigerator. Administering the 20 strokes as directed by the sentence of Common Pleas Judge Robert B. Putnam, Sheriff John Stevens is seen above lashing William Wynn, 41, one of the prisoners. Wynn's brother, Jesse, 51, received like punishment a few moments later. The men chose the whipping rather than accept a 20-day sentence at hard labor.

Special Care Needed by Replanted Wild Flowers

BY W. A. TAYLOR
Chief, Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture
No precise lines divide wild flowers, weeds and plants of economic value. Sunflowers, for example, are weeds in the corn fields, plants of economic value for silage in areas where corn does not mature, and decorative and useful annuals in some gardens where they are used for screens or for background.

The butterflyweed, in spite of its name, is regarded as a rather choice perennial in many gardens. Wheat in the rose bed may be as much a weed as wild roses in the wheat, and either the green or the golden wheat may on occasion be worked into bouquets of flowers to provide contrast to dainty blossoms.

Many wild flowers are highly desirable plants in gardens. Some bloom better under cultivation than in the harsh competition they ordinarily encounter. Others are such vigorous subjects and multiply so rapidly that there is no harm in picking many of them to decorate the home or to transplant to the garden.

Handle With Care
The rarer and more fragile, however, demand protection if they are to survive. This applies particularly to many of the wood flowers that brighten shady spots, many of which are most exacting in their demands and offer a real test of gardening ability. The columbines, the blue wood phlox, azaleas, rhododendrons, clematis, trailing arbutus, the gentians, trilliums, orchids, pitcher plants, Jack-in-the-pulpit, and the wild lupines, larkspurs and lobelias are regions at least are in danger of extermination by their admirers. Self-discipline by flower lovers and the creation of a lively public opinion that disapproves of this form of vandalism seem to offer the best prospect of protection.

Know the flowers and their ways, study their habits, and do not move them merely on impulse. A good first rule to remember is that almost without exception the blooming period of the flower is the worst time to move it.

Study Before Transplanting
It is worse than useless to uproot a delicate woodland wildling that grows in moist shade and in acid soil and hope that it will thrive in full sun in a flower bed that is alkaline and crusty. A better way is to mark the spot where a flower is blooming in profusion and observe the type of soil and the sun or shade conditions. Leave it until you are certain that you have reproduced in your garden similar conditions.

Make a second trip equipped with tools adequate for digging, and with burlap, bags or baskets for protecting the plant from sun and wind. Then plant it with even greater care than you would devote to a plant raised in the nursery or greenhouse.

Many wild plants also require acid soil, and will not long survive in gardens without specially prepared beds. Test the soil where the plant grows for its acidity and prepare the new bed to duplicate as nearly as possible the natural condition.

In accordance with a regular of the state highway department, a traffic census was taken on U. S. 1 between 6 a. m. and 11 p. m. by the office of County Highway Commissioner John Guis. A count taken on Highway 10 near Brillion showed 467 Wisconsin cars, 35 foreign cars, 13 light trucks, 18 heavy trucks and no motorcycles or horse drawn vehicles. On Highway 53, a count taken one mile south of the north county line showed 752 Wisconsin cars, 71 foreign cars, 15 light trucks, 12 heavy trucks, two motorcycles and two horse drawn vehicles. A home run by "Sonny" Tornow in the tenth inning gave the Appleton Collegians a 7 to 6 victory over the Shawano Indians here Sunday afternoon in a slow, listless game.

Tornow's circuit clout followed a ninth inning rally in which the Appleton team garnered five much needed runs to tie the score 6 all. Prior to that inning, in which the Collegians got a rather late start in connecting with the old horsehide, the Indians were ahead 5 to 1.

Al Fons' debut with the Collegians was not as spectacular as was anticipated, and for a few innings the invaders had little difficulty in pounding out his slow offerings. Fons complained throughout the game about his pitching arm in which a cold had settled after a previous engagement.

The stocky hurler, who has seen action with the Milwaukee Brewers and the Holy Cross university baseball club got away to a slow start and was unable to deliver anything but a very slow ball with only a slight hop. The slow ball worked in his favor on many occasions, however, when the Indians attempted to "kill the apple."

There was no member of the Appleton team so joyful after Tornow's winning homer than Manager Leo Murphy. The victory meant a birthday gift for his new son, born at St. Elizabeth hospital shortly before the game got under way. Murphy arrived at the field from the hospital a few minutes before the game started.

The Collegians' belated rally got off to a peppy start when Weisberger laid out a batter into left field. Tornow followed suit to score Weisberger, and Fons made it three runs in a row and scored "Sonny."

"Booze" Bowers in an effort to do his part in the rally flied out in deep left field. An error by Lyons, Shawano left fielder resulted in another run as "Shorty" Versteegen beat it out to first base.

Murphy, whose thoughts were probably centered on a little room over at the hospital fanned, and Eggert went to first on an error, scoring Versteegen. Donegan drove out a long double into deep center field, and "Dats" Crowe, who had a poor day at bat, fanned for the third time to retire the side.

B. Reed went to bat for Shawano in the opening of the tenth frame and started the ball rolling with a double into left field. Then came a play in which Donegan, Appleton third baseman "did himself proud." Like greased lightning he caught a hot one off Lyons' bat, and caught Reed doubling between third and home plate. Handy grounded out.

Weisberger opened the tenth for the Collegians and in one crack landed the ball into the hands of the left fielder. "Sonny" Tornow went to bat, let a fast one kneel high cross the plate, and then connected with a fast one which sent the ball high into the air, and into the high grass on the other side of the fence. Shawano started the scoring in the second frame when Lyons stretched his legs and ran two bases and home on a single by Wege. The latter scored the second run on a double by the Indian pitcher.

The Indians reached Fons for two more runs and two hits in the third frame. A Reed and Wittig scoring. A wild throw by Murphy was responsible for one of the markers. Wittig scored on a long double by B. Reed.

St. Louis for Shawano

Reed brothers, who occupies short stop position for the Shawano aggregation was one of the most outstanding players in yesterday's fracas. With all the agility of a big league short stop he felled the ball with ease, and in a single moment scooped up fast liners and tossed them to first base with the precision of an expert.

Fons tightened up in the fifth, sixth and seventh frames, but was reached for four more hits and two runs in the eighth and ninth. His arm was exceptionally weak in those innings and on several occasions the horsehide lipped up the dirt in front of the rubber.

Although his delivery was not very fantastic, Buche pitched a whole of a game. He exhibited more than the average amount of speed, and kept the Appleton batters guessing. During the first four frames he held the Collegians to one hit. He was removed from the game at the end of the ninth and was replaced by Rubin, who played center field during the first eight innings. Rubin was replaced in the outfield by Lyons, and Hall took the latter's position.

All-Stars Take Oshkosh Team Into Camp, 13-12

Hitting the ball hard in every inning the All-Stars defeated the Oshkosh Fowlers here Saturday afternoon by a score of 13 to 12. They were leading by a big margin until the first of the ninth inning when the Oshkosh aggregation staged a rally and fell one short of a tie.

Huhn a new catcher for the All Stars showed well behind the plate and also was the hitting star for the Stars with three hits.

Crook got a home run with the bases loaded in the ninth for Oshkosh, and L. Schroeder hammered a circuit clout for the All Stars. Crane occupied the mound for the All Stars and was supported by Huhn behind the bat. Stoebauer hurled for the Fowlers and Crook caught.

SUNDAY'S RESULTS
Appleton Merchants 7, Wrightstown 1.
Oshkosh 4, Appleton Athletics 0.
Green Bay 25, DePere 5.
Menasha 6, Darby 2.
Little Chute 7, Neenah 6.

PLAYING a superior brand of baseball, the Appleton Merchants yesterday afternoon stepped into second place in the Little Fox league by walloping Wrightstown by a score of 7 to 1.

The game was played on the Wrightstown diamond.

The Merchants battled behind the superb pitching performance of Buss, youthful hurler. He allowed five hits and struck out 13 batters. The Merchants found the pitching of Dunphy for 11 safe blows while he struck out only four Merchant batters.

Helms Singles

A single by Helms in the fourth inning started the scoring for the Appleton aggregation. Wrightstown rallied to tie the score in their half of the inning when Hardy singled and went to second on an infield out, and then scored on a wild throw. The Merchants scored again in the fifth inning when Kuehl singled, hit to first, and all hands were safe when the first baseman fumbled the horsehide.

Wrightstown threatened several times, but Buss was invincible in the pinches. In the sixth inning and none out, Buss struck out three in a row. M. King and F. Laas were the bat stars for the day. King getting three doubles and one single on five trips to the plate.

German Tennis Stars Eliminate Britons

Of the more than a score of nations who challenged this year for the Davis cup, emblematic of world tennis supremacy, only three remained today—the United States, Germany and Italy.

The United States qualified for the interzone finals some weeks ago by winning the American zone title. Germany and Italy now will clash in the European zone finals, the winner to meet the United States for the right to play France, cupholder, in the challenge round.

Germany sprang a tremendous upset yesterday by eliminating the highly-favored British, defeated three matches to two. Italy, at the same time, conquered Japan by the same score.

Great Britain, which upset the United States in the interzone finals last year only to lose to France, in the challenge round, was fully expected to wade through all European opposition again this year.

Gain Big Lead

After dividing the opening singles matches with Germany in Dublin Friday, the Britons gained a 2-1 lead by winning the double Saturday. At this stage they looked like certain winners but Germany's singles ace, Daniel Prenn and Gottfried von Cramm, won both of the final matches yesterday. Von Cramm defeated Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2, while Prenn defeated Fred Perry, 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 0-6, 7-5.

Italy likewise had to come from behind to eliminate Japan. Giovanni Palmieri and Giorgio de Stefani both won in the final singles matches yesterday to overcome a 2-1 deficit. Palmieri defeated Ota Satoh, 4-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2 and de Stefani conquered T. Kudabara, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

40 Play in Tourney At North Shore Club

K. S. Dickinson tallied a low gross 77 in the 18-hole medal play tournament at North Shore Country club Saturday afternoon. He went out in 38, and returned in 39 to score a 77 total. Approximately 40 players participated in the event.

Low net was scored by F. E. Edwards, who went out in 49 and returned in 43. With a 12 handicap his net score was 70, giving him first place. Only Class A players were allowed to break par. There were 12 cards handed in.

C. W. Hollister took second place; C. H. Swanson, third; D. P. Steinberg, Sr., fourth, and Jack Kimberlin, fifth.

Workouts thus far have been in the old Stanford oval.

Among the track-side fans, coaches and athletes themselves much interest centered on the arrival of Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette negro sprinter, who reached San Francisco yesterday.

Valley Baseball Moguls Attend Annual Fish Fry

FISH scales were thrown to the seven winds, and amateur dentists plucked bones from their teeth as Fox River Valley league baseball moguls rallied for their annual fish fry at the North-eastern Wisconsin fairs grounds at DePere Sunday evening.

Among the moguls from this city who participated in the fish feed were Clarence O. Baez, league president; "Booze" Bowers, "Sonny" Tornow, and Leo Murphy.

What little there was of serious business was confined to a discussion of postponed games. It was decided that the Shawano Indians, who yesterday lost a tough battle to the Appleton aggregation by a score of 7 to 1, should play a postponed fracas with Green Bay at Shawano at 4:30 next Wednesday afternoon. Other postponed games must be played within the next two weeks, the officials ruled.

Humorous Side

Then came the humorous side of the program as Manager Murphy, president of a new baseball player, born at St. Elizabeth hospital yesterday, discussed "Behr" Facts. An inspiring address was delivered by George Gossens, Wisconsin Rapids 3rd baseman, "Shades of Hippo Brown or What Became of Plah-mat."

Bowling Queens or How to Dodge 'em' was the inspiring message delivered by John Coppes of Kaukauna, and "Why the Indians Can't Wear Horseshoes" was the sports topic discussed by Jerry Kral of Shawano. "How I Escaped the Horse-gow in Appleton" was recounted by L. C. Snavely, Green Bay.

"Building A Pennant Contending Team on A Song—Dough, Rae, Me" was discussed by Steve Sulp of Kimberly and "Where Frank Carney Was in the Days of Michael" was the topic of another series of addresses by Marty Lamers, Kaukauna.

Present Baez told the boys all about "Wendellstons." Frank Mohr, chairman of the Brown-Cow highway commission and director of the Green Day Baseball association acted as master of ceremonies.

Brewers Divide Dobule Bill With Indian Sluggers

Braxton Hurls Victory in Second—Win by Score Of 4 to 3

BY WILLIAM WEEFES
Associated Press Sports writer

CHICAGO—It is beginning to look more and more as though the battle for the championship of the American association lies between Minneapolis and Indianapolis.

Until the middle of last week it was a dizzy three-chair race, but with the sudden and difficult to explain slump of the Columbus Red Birds, the Millers and Indians have pulled away from the field. Columbus has been hitting as well as usual and that is plenty, but the pitching, which picked up after a ragged start, apparently has folded up again.

Minneapolis today led Indianapolis by one and one-half games, with Milwaukee and Columbus virtually tied in third position, although the Brewers had a home game on paper. The Appleton aggregation managed to rack up four hits.

Reeko struck out eight Oshkosh batters and Pensensstadler fanned seven Appletonians. Errors in the crucial periods of the game spelled defeat for the Athletics. The Oshkosh nine scored two runs in the initial frame, and repeated the act in the third. Reeko bore down on them in the remaining innings and held them hitless.

In the first inning Zinth struck out; Hable doubled and Bixby was safe on Ellis' wild throw. Hable scored, Davidson hit to Ellis taking second on the latter's wild throw. Bixby scored the second run. Sommerfeld grounded to first, and the Oshkosh hurler hit a fly ball into right field.

In the third frame, Zinth was safe on an error by Ellis. Hable struck out, and Bixby singled. Zinth going to third. Zinth then scored on a fly into center field. Bixby taking third. Bixby scored on a balk. Sommerfeld flied out to center field.

Ellis took first in the seventh frame on an infield hit. Koll hit to right field, and Ellis was thrown out stealing third. Koll was caught off second, and De Young grounded to second.

Stars Divide Double Bill With Wausau Team

Getting off to a late start in the second tilt, the All-Stars were forced to divide a double bill with the Wausau Municipal on the Wausau diamond Sunday. The Appleton aggregation fought a tough battle to win the first game 3 to 1, and rallied too late in the second fracas to lose 10 to 8.

Mortell hurled both games for the All-Stars, and Huhn assisted him behind the pen. Schron occupied the mound in the first game for the Municipal and Schron caught. In the second engagement, Brandenburg hurled for the Wausau aggregation, and was supported by the same catcher.

The All-Stars will play a return double-header with the Wausau team here next Sunday at Brandt park. The first game is scheduled for 10 o'clock in the morning, and the other will take place in the afternoon.

The All-Stars will practice Wednesday evening at First ward diamond instead of Tuesday as formerly planned.

Paavo Nurmi Limp As He Leads Finns To Olympic Games

Chicago—Limping painfully, but offering no more conversation than usual, Paavo Nurmi led the Finnish Olympic team on toward Los Angeles without telling Chicago what caused the limp.

The phantom Finn boarded the train in New York Saturday afternoon with no sign of a limp. When the team stopped off at Chicago yesterday, his left ankle was badly swollen.

His typically Nurmi explanation was: "Yesterday, on train. Nothing."

Athletics Wallop Indians 18 to 17 in Eighteen Inning Battle

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Athletics were only six games out of first place in the American league today, having written into the record one of the most spectacular long-distance victories in baseball history.

Eighteen innings they traveled yesterday to beat out the Cleveland Indians, 18 to 17, and it was a game the likes of which would not be seen once in a blue moon. It was won and lost a fraction of time before Jimmie Foxx finally scored the deciding run.

To give some idea, Johnny Burnett of the Indians collected nine hits in 11 times at bat, and his teammates, Averill and Morgan each cracked five Foxes with six hits, including three home runs, knocked in eight runs for the A's. Gossens had five. There were 38 hits.

Burnett's feat, for all the records disclose, might have established a major league record. The accepted mark of seven hits, set by Wilbert Robinson before the turn of the century was in a regulation length contest.

17 Innings

The veteran Ed Rummel went the last 17 innings for the Athletics and in the end gained the nod over young Wesley Ferrell, who was firing them over the last 11 and a fraction frames for the Indians. But for the fact that Ed Morgan, Cleveland first baseman, let an easy roller trickle through his leg after two were out in the ninth, Cleveland would have won then and there.

What made the victory doubly sweet to the A's was the fact the Yankees were being taken over the jumps twice by St. Louis, 10 to 9 and 6 to 7. The Yanks don't look like the team they were a week ago, before Bill Dickey took his celebrated swip at Carl Reynolds and Lefty Gomez dropped his cleak of invincibility. The Browns knocked Gomez from the hull in the first game to hand him his third straight defeat.

Divide Twin Bill

Detroit divided a pair with the Red Sox, winning the first, 7 to 5, and dropping the second, 13 to 2. Big Smead Jelley of the Sox pounded seven hits during the afternoon to move into third place among the American league's batters.

While Alvin Crowder pitched steady ball, Washington belted three White Sox flippers for 19 hits and a 13 to 3 victory.

Pittsburgh and Chicago were a stand-off in their third race for National league honors as both captured sabbath encounters.

The leading Pirates made a flying start into the east, and picked up an 8 to 7 win over Brooklyn when Hack Wilson let a drive get away from him in the ninth. The Rookie Bill Swift was credited with his fifth straight triumph.

Chicago's dazzling sophomore, Lonnie Warneke, shut the Braves out, 4 to 0, on six hits for his twelfth success of the year. Gabby Hartnett led the Cubs at bat with a home run, double and single.

The Cincinnati Reds, playing two-well-pitched games, didn't do a thing but belabor the Giants twice, 6 to 4 and 4 to 2. The Reds, with eight victories in ten games, were out of the basement today, leaving eighth place to the New Yorkers. Red Lucas pitched his eighteenth consecutive complete game in his first tilt, and Owen Carroll outdueled Adolfo Luque in the nightcap.

Bill Hustahan and Dizzy Dean hurled the Cardinals to a double win over the Phillies, 7 to 5 and 3 to 1. Dean yielding only five hits. The twin victory pushed the world champions all the way from eighth place to fourth in the league standing.

Snicker Bakers Trim Kaukauna Meat Cutters

Spikers Bakery softball team defeated the Weyershamer team of Kaukauna by a score of 15 to 2 at Wilson Junior high school Saturday morning. The Weyershamer aggregation was the Bakers and was supported behind the bat by Schron.

Baker hurled for the Kaukauna aggregation and Kuehl stood behind the pen.

Mattell allowed four hits and struck out 10 batters. Included in

In Addition at Thilmany Mill

More Persons to Secure Employment as Machines are Installed

Kaukauna—Twenty-three persons secured employment here last week when operations were started in the new addition being completed for the Thilmany Pulp and Paper company. Only about half the machines have been set up in the plant, but as soon as the balance are ready, another group of women and men will be given work.

W. F. Ashe, company official, said that more workers would be added as the installation of more machines is completed. The balance of the equipment is being sent here from Waukegan, Ill., where the bag manufacturing department of the company has been located. The decision to move the bag factory back to Kaukauna was made some time ago. Originally this activity was centered here.

With the new bag plant in operation all of the activities of the Thilmany company are now centered here. A short time ago the firm moved its paper making machinery and equipment from its Appleton mill to this city. The Appleton mill has been closed.

The new building for the bag factory, which was built by the Permanent Construction company, is 135 feet wide and 200 feet long and covers 27,000 square feet. It is one of the largest buildings erected in this city in recent years. The building houses the manufacturing, printing and warehouse needs of the bag department.

Bulletin Tells Proper Method of Controlling Pests

Cut Worms Have Attacked
Cabbage Fields Throughout County

BY W. F. WINSEY

As cutworms have forced local growers to replant cabbage fields several times this spring, they are interested in finding out the life history of the pests, whether its parents are moths or bugs, and methods of control.

The parents of the cutworm are grayish or brownish moths or "millers" which commonly fly about lights at night during summer evenings. Each moth may lay from 200 to 500 eggs, either in masses or singly, in fields covered with dense vegetation and hence are to be found more often in cultivated fields which have been in grass or weeds the preceding fall. The eggs hatch in the fall, a few weeks after they are laid, usually during September, and the young cutworms, after feeding on grass and other vegetation until cold weather, pass the winter as partly grown caterpillars. When the grass is broken and planted to corn or other wide-row crops, the worms being suddenly placed on "short rations" often injure severely the newly planted crops, the nearly full-grown worms feeding greedily and consuming large amounts of food. In northern latitudes they obtain their full growth and stop feeding in late June or early July, and change to the pupal or resting stage, according to Farmers' Bulletin, 759, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

There is no practical control of cutworms in large corn and cabbage fields on account of the labor and expense. Grasshopper poison bait if scattered light in the rows of corn or cabbage, however, will destroy the pests. Herman Knorr, Shiocton, saved a three acre field of cabbage through the use of grasshopper bait. The bait may be made less expensive by scattering it thinly.

The rules for mixing the bait are as follows: Place 2 pails of water in a wash tub. Dissolve 5 pounds of salt in the water. Put one gallon of molasses in the mixture and stir well. Add 2 quarts of sodium arsenate and stir well.

Put four bushels of old saw dust just sift into a barrel or cement mixer evenly. Pour the poison mixture over the sawdust evenly. Mix slowly for 3 minutes. Place bait in sacks direct from the mixer. The cost of the bait mixed is about 22 cents per bushel.

To control grasshoppers already in a field scatter the bait thinly in parallel strips across the field at the rate of one-half bushel or a bushel to the acre. Wide spaces may be left between the strips on which the bait is scattered.

To head off grasshopper approaching an alfalfa field for instance sow the bait around the outside of the field only.

To control cutworms in corn and cabbage scatter the bait lightly along the rows.

Be careful with the bait as it is

Fourth Lock Still is Popular for Swimming

Kaukauna—Although the municipal swimming pool is crowded daily, the "old swimmin' hole" at the fourth lock continues to be popular. During the past week hundreds escaped the heat by swimming in the Fox river there. The fourth lock was the regular city swimming place before the municipal pool was built.

The place is popular with swimmers as it affords many different diving levels, ranging from two to 15 feet. These levels are changed as the water in the lock is lowered and raised to allow boats to pass up and down the river.
